Unit description

This unit develops students' knowledge and understanding of contemporary theories in Translation and Interpreting Studies from an historical perspective. Theories discussed include functionalist theories, discourse analysis approaches, polysystems theories, ideological theories, and corpus-based translation studies. The unit will also include discussions on sociolinguistic and cognitive approaches to describing interpreting.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

Demonstrate a systematic understanding of translation and interpreting theories through a critical survey of past and present theories of translation and interpreting. Critically evaluate the contribution of translation and interpreting theories to our understanding of translation and interpreting as cultural, social and cognitive phenomena.

Compare and contrast major approaches in translation and interpreting studies.

Communicate theoretical concepts orally and in writing to a variety of audiences.

General Assessment Information

Translation and Interpreting programme policy on late assignment submission

How to apply for a late submission of an assignment

All requests for special consideration, including extensions, must be submitted via https://ask.m q.edu.au/ and provide suitable supporting documentation. Contact your unit convenor first for advice, especially in the case of an emergency or if you are unsure about the extension policy.

Late assignment submission information

- Late submissions without an extension will receive a penalty of 5% of the total mark available for the assignment per day
- Late submission of an assignment without an extension will not be permitted after marks have been released to the rest of the class.
- Extensions will only be given in special circumstances, and can be requested by completing the Special Consideration request at ask.mq.edu.au and providing the requisite supporting documentation. For more information on Special Consideration, see the university website https://students.mq.edu.au/study/my-study-program/special-consid eration
- Assignments submitted after the deadline, regardless of the reason, will be marked and returned at a date determined by the unit convenor.
- Extensions cannot continue beyond the start of the following semester except under exceptional circumstances, and students should be aware that long extensions may impact graduation dates

Assessment Tasks

Name	Weighting	Hurdle	Due
Assignment 1	20%	No	Week 6
Assignment 2	40%	No	Week 9
Assignment 3	40%	Yes	Week 14 (exam period)

Assignment 1

Due: Week 6 Weighting: 20%

For this assignment, you are required to submit a critical review of an academic article, in a multimedia video format. You will be provided with a selection of articles on interpreting and translation theory, and asked to select one article. You are required to prepare and present orally a critical review of this article, in a multimedia format of your choice (a video, Prezi presentation, podcast, narrated slideshow, etc.), which should be recorded for submission. The multimedia video presentation should be 5-7 minutes in duration. The assignment will be assessed using a rubric provided on iLearn.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Demonstrate a systematic understanding of translation and interpreting theories through a critical survey of past and present theories of translation and interpreting.
- Critically evaluate the contribution of translation and interpreting theories to our understanding of translation and interpreting as cultural, social and cognitive phenomena.
- Compare and contrast major approaches in translation and interpreting studies.
- Communicate theoretical concepts orally and in writing to a variety of audiences.

Assignment 2

Due: Week 9 Weighting: 40%

For this assignment, you are required to write an academic essay on a topic related to interpreting theory. Your lecturer will provide you with more information on the topic. Your essay should be approximately 2000 words in length. The assignment will be assessed using a rubric provided on iLearn.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Demonstrate a systematic understanding of translation and interpreting theories through a critical survey of past and present theories of translation and interpreting.
- Critically evaluate the contribution of translation and interpreting theories to our understanding of translation and interpreting as cultural, social and cognitive phenomena.
- Compare and contrast major approaches in translation and interpreting studies.
- Communicate theoretical concepts orally and in writing to a variety of audiences.

Assignment 3

Due: Week 14 (exam period)

Weighting: 40%

This is a hurdle assessment task (see assessment policy for more information on hurdle assessment tasks)

In TRAN 902, you have covered a range of translation theories. In this assignment, you will be required to carry out a small independent research project, based on one of the theoretical frameworks of translation you learnt about in this unit. You will:

- Formulate a research question within the framework of the translation theory you have chosen.
- Collect and analyse data using a method appropriate to the research question and theoretical framework.
- Interpret the data you collected by critically integrating it with the key theoretical constructs in the paradigm you have chosen.

You should present your research project in the form of a 2000-word research report. Your lecturer will provide you with guidelines on writing a research report. Your research report will be assessed based on a rubric which will be supplied on iLearn.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Demonstrate a systematic understanding of translation and interpreting theories through a critical survey of past and present theories of translation and interpreting.
- Critically evaluate the contribution of translation and interpreting theories to our understanding of translation and interpreting as cultural, social and cognitive phenomena.
- Compare and contrast major approaches in translation and interpreting studies.
- Communicate theoretical concepts orally and in writing to a variety of audiences.

Graduate Capabilities

PG - Capable of Professional and Personal Judgment and Initiative

Our postgraduates will demonstrate a high standard of discernment and common sense in their professional and personal judgment. They will have the ability to make informed choices and decisions that reflect both the nature of their professional work and their personal perspectives.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Demonstrate a systematic understanding of translation and interpreting theories through a critical survey of past and present theories of translation and interpreting.
- Critically evaluate the contribution of translation and interpreting theories to our understanding of translation and interpreting as cultural, social and cognitive phenomena.
- Compare and contrast major approaches in translation and interpreting studies.
- · Communicate theoretical concepts orally and in writing to a variety of audiences.

Assessment tasks

- Assignment 1
- Assignment 2
- Assignment 3

PG - Discipline Knowledge and Skills

Our postgraduates will be able to demonstrate a significantly enhanced depth and breadth of knowledge, scholarly understanding, and specific subject content knowledge in their chosen fields.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Demonstrate a systematic understanding of translation and interpreting theories through a critical survey of past and present theories of translation and interpreting.
- Critically evaluate the contribution of translation and interpreting theories to our understanding of translation and interpreting as cultural, social and cognitive phenomena.
- Compare and contrast major approaches in translation and interpreting studies.

Assessment tasks
