Unit description

Climate change. Asylum seekers. Marriage equality. Terrorism. Reconciliation. Housing affordability. Populist politics. Income inequality. Consumerism. Lockout laws. Big data. Automation. What are the major issues affecting Australian society today? MHIS109 explores this question, and examines the ways that history shapes the present. It is designed for history students as well as anyone who wishes to gain a greater understanding of contemporary Australian society. Students from all Faculties are welcome. Each week, issues of topical importance are introduced and given an historical setting. Using a wide range of media and primary sources, we will draw connections between the present and the past and consider the power of history to influence events today. All enrolment queries should be directed to Open Universities Australia (OUA): see www.open.edu.au

Assessment Tasks

Name	Weighting	Hurdle	Due
Participation	10%	No	Weekly
Quiz	20%	No	Weekly
Analysis Task	30%	No	Friday Week 7
Research Essay	40%	No	Friday Week 12

Participation

Due: Weekly

Weighting: 10%

Face-to-face and online discussion tests your ability to communicate ideas, your appreciation and comprehension of the themes and concepts discussed in the course, your ability to critically assess and evaluate the arguments of others, and your ability to clearly articulate your thoughts. It also monitors your progress across the unit topics. Internal students are expected to attend weekly tutorials and participate in weekly discussions in-class. External and OUA students are expected to make online postings within the time frame of each discussion topic. These begin on Monday of the discussion week and run through to the following Sunday. You will be assessed on the quality of your responses, the frequency of your posts and your engagement with other students. A professional and courteous approach towards staff and fellow students is expected at all times.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Be able to read and analyse different kinds of historical evidence, including visual and textual sources

- Be able to communicate effectively in a range of written and/ or oral forms
- Be able to identify key changes and continuities in Australian society and the economy over the past 200 years
- Be able to identify and analyse important areas of current policy and their historical background

Quiz

Due: Weekly

Weighting: 20%

Each week you will be tested on your knowledge with a short, multiple choice, online quiz. There are ten quizzes in the unit, each accounting for 2% of your overall mark. The first quiz runs in Week 2. Quizzes are due on the Sunday night at the end of each week.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Be able to read and analyse different kinds of historical evidence, including visual and textual sources
- Be able to identify key changes and continuities in Australian society and the economy over the past 200 years

Analysis Task

Due: Friday Week 7

Weighting: 30%

In this task you will be asked to select an issue of current importance in Australia. You will identify a newspaper article that deals with this issue, and summarise its key points and argument. You will also analyse the relevant essential weekly reading, critiquing the evidence the historian draws on, and providing a summary of the main argument of the article. The total word length for this task is 600 words.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Be able to read and analyse different kinds of historical evidence, including visual and textual sources
- Be able to find, analyse and apply historical information
- Be able to communicate effectively in a range of written and/ or oral forms
- Be able to research sources relevant to the above

Research Essay

Due: Friday Week 12

Weighting: 40%

The major assessment task for this unit is a 1500-word essay. In it you will be asked to provide historical context for one of a range of issues significant in Australian society today. You will be asked to analyse how this history deepens our understanding of the selected issue. More details about this task will be provided in the iLearn site.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Be able to read and analyse different kinds of historical evidence, including visual and textual sources
- Be able to find, analyse and apply historical information
- Be able to communicate effectively in a range of written and/ or oral forms
- Be able to identify key changes and continuities in Australian society and the economy over the past 200 years
- Be able to identify and analyse important areas of current policy and their historical background
- Be able to research sources relevant to the above

Delivery and Resources

There is not text book for this unit. All essential readings will be provided. Students will need to conduct some of their own research online and/ or in the library to complete tasks. External and OUA students will be able to complete all tasks online.

Policies and Procedures

Special Consideration Policy and Procedure

(<https://staff.mq.edu.au/work/strategy-planning-and-governance/university-policies-and-procedures/policies/special-consideration>)

The University recognises that students may experience events or conditions that adversely affect their academic performance. If you experience serious and unavoidable difficulties at exam time or when assessment tasks are due, you can consider applying for Special Consideration.

You need to show that the circumstances:

1. were serious, unexpected and unavoidable
2. were beyond your control
3. caused substantial disruption to your academic work
4. substantially interfered with your otherwise satisfactory fulfilment of the unit requirements
5. lasted at least three consecutive days or a total of 5 days within the teaching period and prevented completion of an assessment task scheduled for a specific date.

If you feel that your studies have been impacted submit an application as follows:

1. Visit Ask MQ and use your OneID to log in
2. Fill in your relevant details
3. Attach supporting documents by clicking 'Add a reply', click 'Browse' and navigating to the files you want to attach, then click 'Submit Form' to send your notification and supporting documents
4. Please keep copies of your original documents, as they may be requested in the future as part of the assessment process

Outcome

Once your submission is assessed, an appropriate outcome will be organised.
