Unit description

This unit examines economic analysis concepts and tools that enable students to set an organisation's decision-making within its wider economic context. Topics include supply, demand, and market equilibrium; scarcity; exchange and trade; choice theory; theory of the firm; game theory and strategy; market structure; market failures; role of government and government policies; aggregate economy; and international trade. We look at economic variables and how rises and falls in these variables affect people and businesses. We investigate how government policies, decisions by households and firms, and changes in the world economy affect inflation, exchange rates, interest rates, unemployment, growth, and social issues such as poverty and inequality.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

Evaluate a wide array of local and global economics information to formulate well-informed and robust business decisions.

Develop a strategy for efficient allocation of scarce resources in a global marketplace.

Critically reflect on how changes in economic conditions affect individual businesses and society.

Assessment Tasks

Name	Weighting	Hurdle	Due
Participation and Contribution	20%	No	Throughout Term
Individual Online Quizzes	20%	No	Session 4 and Session 8
Research Essay	20%	No	5pm of 30 August 2019
Final Examination	40%	No	Exam Week

Participation and Contribution

Due: Throughout Term

Weighting: 20%

Format: Individual participation and contributions in the online classes and iLearn forum discussions

Due: Weekly contributions worth 2% each throughout the term; graded at the end of term

During the term, each student will be expected to participate and make high-quality contributions to the weekly online classes and iLearn forum discussions. A key component of this assessment involves researching an economic concept as applied to your own experience or a case and presenting this back in the online classes (or iLearn forum discussions). High marks are awarded to those who stimulate discussion and foster peer-to-peer learning in the online classes and iLearn forum discussions. You are highly encouraged to contribute to discussions as this provides the easiest and most time-efficient mechanism by which comprehensive feedback loops can be achieved. Remember opportunity cost! Your contributions will be marked according to the following rubric:

Criteria	Comment	Mark	Quality of comments	/5	Depth of comments	/5	Contribution to discussion and building on other's comments	/10	Total	/20
----------	---------	------	---------------------	----	-------------------	----	---	-----	--------------	------------

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Evaluate a wide array of local and global economics information to formulate well-informed and robust business decisions.
- Develop a strategy for efficient allocation of scarce resources in a global marketplace.
- Critically reflect on how changes in economic conditions affect individual businesses and society.

Individual Online Quizzes

Due: Session 4 and Session 8

Weighting: 20%

Duration: 60 minutes each

Format: Two online iLearn quizzes

Due: One scheduled in session 4 + one scheduled in session 8

Two online iLearn quizzes will be scheduled during the term and will be based on material covered in earlier classes and readings. Further information will be provided in iLearn.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Critically reflect on how changes in economic conditions affect individual businesses and society.

Research Essay

Due: 5pm of 30 August 2019

Weighting: 20%

Length: 3,000 words maximum. You can attach relevant appendices and supporting documentation which will not be counted in this limit.

The essay should stand alone – do NOT depend upon a reader to read the appendices. The appendices should be there to identify the sources of your research, show how your conclusions are reached and provide relevant back-up to your arguments.

The essay will be assessed on:

- Clarity and conciseness;
- The extent to which the questions are in fact answered;
- The quality of research, timeliness and relevance of information and statistics;
- Quality of analysis;
- Its usefulness to real world management issues; and/or
- Implication for economic policy.

The essay will be assessed against the relevant unit objectives, being:

- Interpret the meaning of economic information (both statistical, and qualitative), and to identify the additional economic (and other) information which might be useful for a decision, and where to get it; and
- Identify the factors likely to lead to a change in economic conditions, and provide scenarios of the likely economic impact of those changes.

TOPIC: TBA in class

Submission:

Students are to submit 1 x soft-copy of their individual report on the due date as listed in the box above. The soft-copy submission will be submitted to Turnitin via the MGSM iLearn portal, a program used to ensure the originality of the work undertaken by the submitter. Students can submit as many times as they want up until the due date and time.

Please ensure your full name, student number, unit code (MGSM845 ONLINE), unit name (Economic context of management), and lecturer (JP Monck) is clearly visible on the front page of your assignment.

Extensions and penalties:

No extensions will be granted. There will be a deduction of 10% of the total available marks made from the total awarded mark for each 24 hour period or part thereof that the submission is late (for example, 25 hours late in submission – 20% penalty). This penalty does not apply for cases in which an application for special consideration is made and approved. No submission will be accepted after solutions have been posted.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Evaluate a wide array of local and global economics information to formulate well-informed and robust business decisions.
- Develop a strategy for efficient allocation of scarce resources in a global marketplace.
- Critically reflect on how changes in economic conditions affect individual businesses and society.

Final Examination

Due: Exam Week

Weighting: 40%

Duration: 3 hours and 30 minutes - This is the total time given to complete and submit your individual exam answers into iLearn during a designated period in exam week.

Format: Open book online exam

A computer with internet access and printer connection will be required. (You may wish to print out the online exam question paper to make quick notes.)

The exam format will be open book online, and will consist of two essay style questions. More details on the exam will be provided over the term.

The final exam will cover content from:

- Unit materials
- Exercises, case studies and group discussions

You are expected to present yourself for examination at the time and place designated in the MGSM examination timetable. The timetable will be available at <https://students.mgsm.edu.au/sydney-students/units/exams/>

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Evaluate a wide array of local and global economics information to formulate well-informed and robust business decisions.
- Develop a strategy for efficient allocation of scarce resources in a global marketplace.
- Critically reflect on how changes in economic conditions affect individual businesses and society.

Delivery and Resources

Required text

Samuelson, W. & Marks, S. (2014). Managerial Economics, 8th edition. Wiley, ISBN: 9781118808948

Where to purchase the textbook?

The Coop Bookshop: The Coop Bookshop is our main retailer for textbooks and other related academic material. For information on textbook prices and online ordering, please refer to The Co-Op Bookshop webpage at <http://www.coop.com.au>

Disclaimer: MGSM does not take responsibility for the stock levels of required textbooks from preferred retail outlets and other book retailers. While we advise our preferred book retail outlet, The Co-op Bookshop, of our maximum expected number of students purchasing specific required text each term, The Co-op Bookshop and other book retailers will make their own judgement in regard to their physical holding stock levels. To prevent disappointment if a textbook is out-of-stock, we highly advise students to order their textbooks as early as possible, or if the required textbook is currently out-of-stock, place an order with the book retailer as soon as possible so that these book retailers can monitor demand and supply, and adjust their stock orders accordingly.

Unit requirements

You will not be expected to become an economist, but you will be expected to acquire economic skills that are useful to managers.

To successfully complete the unit you will be expected to demonstrate that you can do the following things at a level acceptable in the business world:

- Understand and make practical use of basic economic concepts by applying them to typical business management problems.
- Interpret the meaning of economic information (both statistical and qualitative), and to identify the additional economic (and other) information which might be useful for a decision, and where to get it.
- Understand how economic models can be used in making predictions and interpreting economic trends. And be able to identify the assumptions and limitations of economic models used by economists to make predictions and policy recommendations.

- Identify the factors likely to lead to a change in economic conditions, and provide scenarios of the likely economic impact on a specific entity (such as a manufacturing or service company) of those changes.
- Evaluate the content and logic of reports containing economic information as it relates to the contemporary Australian, Asian and other world economies. Identify fallacies in economic arguments, and weigh up different theoretical interpretations of facts leading to alternative predictions.
- Identify and evaluate the options for managing economic variables to achieve specific objectives, at a corporate level (e.g. profit or sales maximisation).
- Analyse and report on the way that changes in economic circumstances are transmitted through the economy, and assess their likely impact on, and implications for a given entity.

Unit Schedule

This class for 2019 Term 3 is scheduled every Thursday, starting from Week 1 and finishing in Week 10.

Students are not required to attend all classes. All classes shall be recorded and all students are expected to review any classes they were unable to attend, as the material discussed in the classes will materially focus on the core subject topics and assessable items.

The unit will be presented as follows:

Graduate Capabilities

PG - Discipline Knowledge and Skills

Our postgraduates will be able to demonstrate a significantly enhanced depth and breadth of knowledge, scholarly understanding, and specific subject content knowledge in their chosen fields.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Evaluate a wide array of local and global economics information to formulate well-informed and robust business decisions.
- Develop a strategy for efficient allocation of scarce resources in a global marketplace.
- Critically reflect on how changes in economic conditions affect individual businesses and society.

Assessment tasks

- Participation and Contribution
- Individual Online Quizzes
- Research Essay
- Final Examination

Learning and teaching activities

- Lectures will be used to introduce you to topics, and to show you how these things fit into a broader context. You will then need to read up on and revise basic concepts through the text. Lectures, class exercises and cases, will be used to show you how to apply the concepts and techniques

PG - Critical, Analytical and Integrative Thinking

Our postgraduates will be capable of utilising and reflecting on prior knowledge and experience, of applying higher level critical thinking skills, and of integrating and synthesising learning and knowledge from a range of sources and environments. A characteristic of this form of thinking is the generation of new, professionally oriented knowledge through personal or group-based critique of practice and theory.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Evaluate a wide array of local and global economics information to formulate well-informed and robust business decisions.
- Develop a strategy for efficient allocation of scarce resources in a global marketplace.
