Unit description

The study of public policy has traditionally been focused on the nation-state, and policy-making activities at the domestic level. With the growing recognition of the impact and extent of globalisation, policy scholars are increasingly concerned about the apparently diminishing capacity of the nation-state to determine its own policy directions. This unit reflects critically on this debate around globalisation and the state, and explores the impact of international institutions, interests and ideas on domestic policy-making. The unit examines direct and indirect, coercive and voluntary mechanisms of policy transfer and policy diffusion, and intergovernmental cooperation and coordination.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

- Understand the various theoretical perspectives on the impact of globalisation on the role of the State
- Describe the policy-making process and identify points at which international factors impact on domestic policy capacity
- Explain the roles played by institutions and actors, both domestic and international, in the policy process
- Describe the various mechanisms through which policy is transferred from one jurisdiction to another
- Locate, assess and analyse relevant evidence and information related to public policy in the national and international spheres.

General Assessment Information

Successful completion of the unit requires submission of all assignments. Attendance to lectures is very strongly encouraged.

Submission details:

The four 350-word posts as well as contribution to open online fora must be posted on ilearn in respective weekly fora.

The Take Home Exam and the Essay must be submitted electronically via turnitin on iLearn. No paper copies of assignments are required, however I strongly encourage you to save your work on multiple devices/in the cloud. Loss of work due to the existence of only one copy that got lost during a faulty software update will not be accepted as a justification for late submission.

Marking rubrics for all assignments, as well as additional assignment explanations, will be made available on ilearn at the beginning of the semester.

Extensions will only be granted in exceptional circumstances, and will require documentary evidence such as a medical certificate to support the request for an extension. You should contact the convenor as early as possible if you think you may need an extension.

Late Submission Penalty

Unless a Special Consideration request has been submitted and approved, (a) a penalty for lateness will apply – two (2) marks out of 100 will be deducted per day for assignments submitted after the due date – and (b) no assignment will be accepted more than seven (7) days (incl. weekends) after the original submission deadline. No late submissions will be accepted for timed assessments – e.g. quizzes, online tests.

Assessment Tasks

Name	Weighting	Hurdle	Due
350-word posts on ilearn	25%	No	Sundays of w. 3, 5, 9 and 11
Take-Home Exam	25%	No	Sunday week 7
Participation	10%	No	Ongoing
Essay	40%	No	Sunday week 13

350-word posts on ilearn

Due: Sundays of w. 3, 5, 9 and 11

Weighting: 25%

The 350-word posts will address questions drawing on readings covered over the weeks previous to the post submission. The posts will have to be posted on ilearn in Q and A fora: students will only be able to see their fellow students' posts once they have submitted their own post.

Each post will be worth a fourth of the 25%.

A detailed marking rubric will be available on ilearn at the start the semester.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Understand the various theoretical perspectives on the impact of globalisation on the role of the State
- Describe the policy-making process and identify points at which international factors impact on domestic policy capacity
- Explain the roles played by institutions and actors, both domestic and international, in the policy process
- Describe the various mechanisms through which policy is transferred from one jurisdiction to another
- Locate, assess and analyse relevant evidence and information related to public policy in the national and international spheres.

Take-Home Exam

Due: Sunday week 7

Weighting: 25%

The open-books take-home exam will be made of short questions covering topics discussed between week 1 and week 7. The questions will be available on ilearn in week 7 and students will have 48 hours to submit the take-home exam.

More information on question types as well as a detailed marking rubric will be available on ilearn at the start the semester.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Understand the various theoretical perspectives on the impact of globalisation on the role of the State
- Explain the roles played by institutions and actors, both domestic and international, in the policy process
- Describe the various mechanisms through which policy is transferred from one jurisdiction to another
- Locate, assess and analyse relevant evidence and information related to public policy in the national and international spheres.

Participation

Due: Ongoing

Weighting: 10%

Informed and reflective contributions to online fora open to internal and external students on ilearn.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Describe the policy-making process and identify points at which international factors impact on domestic policy capacity
- Locate, assess and analyse relevant evidence and information related to public policy in the national and international spheres.

Essay

Due: Sunday week 13

Weighting: 40%

Essay questions will focus on issues covered throughout the entire semester and be available on ilearn after the mid-semester break. The essay length is 2500 words including bibliography. A detailed marking rubric will be available on ilearn at the start of the semester.

Students who would like to make up their own essay questions will have the opportunity to do so on request. Self-chosen questions will have to follow the model of the available essay questions.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Understand the various theoretical perspectives on the impact of globalisation on the role of the State
- Describe the policy-making process and identify points at which international factors impact on domestic policy capacity
- Explain the roles played by institutions and actors, both domestic and international, in the policy process
- Describe the various mechanisms through which policy is transferred from one jurisdiction to another
- Locate, assess and analyse relevant evidence and information related to public policy in the national and international spheres.

Engaged and Ethical Local and Global citizens

As local citizens our graduates will be aware of indigenous perspectives and of the nation's historical context. They will be engaged with the challenges of contemporary society and with knowledge and ideas. We want our graduates to have respect for diversity, to be open-minded, sensitive to others and inclusive, and to be open to other cultures and perspectives: they should have a level of cultural literacy. Our graduates should be aware of disadvantage and social justice, and be willing to participate to help create a wiser and better society.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Describe the policy-making process and identify points at which international factors impact on domestic policy capacity
- Explain the roles played by institutions and actors, both domestic and international, in the policy process
