Unit description

Is it possible to recover the past through modern technology? In this unit we investigate the past and we look at images from archaeological sites, museums, documentary films and readings from ancient philosophers. We will discuss aspects of the historical, political, cultural and ideological sphere of the Greek state within the context of its neighbours and Europe. The aim is to demonstrate various aspects of nation building and identity construction in one of the oldest existing cultures in Europe. Lectures will be in English only.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>
