Unit description

This unit examines different critical approaches to analysing literature, including narratological, postcolonial, feminist, and cognitive. This range of perspectives will open up ways of considering what literature is, what kinds of knowledge it provides, and what is at stake — culturally, politically, aesthetically, and emotionally — in the way texts are understood and consumed. This unit will prepare students for research in literary studies by addressing questions concerning how we as scholars approach literary texts and the critical responses they have attracted; how we recognize and assess a literary approach; and what questions and access points we use to understand and critique literary texts. Practically, students will learn to identify, understand, and apply different questions and concepts to the interpretation of texts and to the creation of meaning.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

ULO1: Identify, understand and apply different questions and concepts to the interpretation of texts, and to the creation of meaning.

ULO2: Demonstrate an understanding of the way literature is understood and consumed, through the critique of texts from a range of perspectives.

ULO3: Compare, contrast and critique different points of view, to generate new ideas in spoken and written contexts.

ULO4: Interpret, synthesise and critically analyse published scholarship in English literary studies.

ULO5: Organise and present information meaningfully and persuasively through the combination of research and critical practice.

Assessment Tasks

Coronavirus (COVID-19) Update

Assessment details are no longer provided here as a result of changes due to the Coronavirus (COVID-19) pandemic.

Students should consult iLearn for revised unit information.

Delivery and Resources

Coronavirus (COVID-19) Update

Any references to on-campus delivery below may no longer be relevant due to COVID-19.

Please check here for updated delivery information: https://ask.mq.edu.au/account/pub/display/unit_status

For this unit, students will be expected to attend one 2hr seminar each week of session (weeks 1 and 13 inclusive).

A list of readings will be provided for students via iLearn. Most readings will be provided in digital format via Leganto.

In addition to the digitised reading, students will be asked to source a copy of William Shakespeare's The Tempest (any edition).
