Unit description

In this professional practice capstone unit students will work as teams of consulting engineers to provide an engineering solution to a real need or problem provided by industry, and which addresses a Sustainable Development Goal (SDG). The teams may be multidisciplinary, as required by the nature of the project, and will gain valuable exposure to relevant industry partner and other stakeholders to gain an in-depth understanding of the problem, the relevant industry, and the socio-technical and other contexts in which the need or problem arose, and the engineered system or solution required. The teams will be expected to organise, plan, and perform all other tasks associated with good engineering practice, including discussion and reflection around the engineering problem and the engineering process. Individual and collective technical and professional competencies will be demonstrated through the production of a substantial report and presentation for consideration by the relevant industry and other stakeholders. An appreciation of the various contexts and factors impacting upon engineering practice will be developed.

Important Academic Dates

Students in this unit will be formed into groups of six (6) to eight (8) students. Each group will work on delivering a presentation (video preferred) that pitches their socio-technical solution to a given problem. The problem is a real problem that affects Australians, and the solution must be practical within the context given.

Groups will buddy work with other groups to improve their assessments.

Individual contribution will be gauged through the use of the SPARKplus system.
