Unit description
Creative nonfiction has been defined as “true stories that are told well”. In this unit, you will research and compose narrative nonfiction works, including art, science and environmental writing. You will analyse and apply various literary techniques, genres and styles to examine issues such as the embodied self and the cultural construction of the natural world. You will have the opportunity to explore contemporary critical and imaginative approaches to creative nonfiction, nonfiction poetry, lyricism, natural history, science, and public advocacy writing. This unit is particularly relevant to those who want to learn how to write discursive, persuasive or personal essays based on factual research.

Important Academic Dates
Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at https://students.mq.edu.au/important-dates

Learning Outcomes
On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

ULO1: Analyse and evaluate different readerships and audiences within the creative nonfiction market
ULO2: Identify and analyse practices and techniques of producing creative nonfiction
ULO3: Conduct research appropriate to nonfiction writing
ULO4: Apply practical and conceptual knowledge to creative written work
ULO5: Critique and evaluate your own research and creative writing processes
ULO6: Provide constructive feedback on students' writing in a workshop context.
