Unit description

This unit is designed to engage students with current research in the Human Sciences. This unit provides a loose structure in which candidates develop their own plan of activities and present and report on them. Activities may include such things as seminar attendance along with directed reading of research papers in readiness for seminars, and the discussion and critiquing of research topics; or the introduction to new laboratory or clinical techniques with preparatory reading, hands-on experience and a final report. Individual learning contracts will be negotiated with each candidate. Presentation of a seminar and preparing a written report based on work undertaken will be the minimum requirements for completion of this unit

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

ULO1: Demonstrate a coherent and advanced knowledge of current research in an area of human sciences

ULO2: Synthesise and analyse information from a variety of sources

ULO3: Develop a series of research questions and a rationale for those questions

ULO4: Identify and discuss complex problems with intellectual independence

ULO5: Articulate a coherent argument in written and oral form to a variety of audiences

ULO6: Develop a high level of oral, written, and technological communication skills, with specialisation for the specific needs of a discipline in human sciences

ULO7: Demonstrate high standards of ethical conduct in a research activity
