Unit description

This unit is devoted to examining the ways in which evolutionary biology can shed light on the nature of the human mind and culture. The unit begins with an introduction to evolutionary theory and a discussion of some foundational issues concerning its nature and structure. It explains its central concepts such as natural selection, fitness, adaption, and units of selection. It will also debate current modifications to evolutionary theory, such as evolutionary developmental biology, niche construction and the so called Extended Synthesis. A substantial part of the unit, however, involves investigating extensions of evolutionary theory to the explanation of human mind and culture. In particular, recent theories of cultural and cognitive evolution such as Evolutionary Psychology, gene-culture coevolution, and cognitive-developmental niche construction will be examined in detail. Issues, such as the ambitions and limitations of evolutionary explanations of human ethical and sexual behaviour will also be discussed. No background in biology or science is assumed.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

ULO1: critically evaluate the theories and arguments studied, identify their strengths and weaknesses,

ULO2: Understand some of the current major issues connecting philosophy, evolutionary biology and culture.

ULO3: Synthesize and analyze information from a variety of sources concerning foundational concepts and arguments in biology and philosophy.

ULO4: express and expound the existing positions studied clearly and lucidly

Assessment Tasks

Coronavirus (COVID-19) Update

Assessment details are no longer provided here as a result of changes due to the Coronavirus (COVID-19) pandemic.

Students should consult iLearn for revised unit information.

Find out more about the Coronavirus \(COVID-19\) and potential impacts on staff and students

General Assessment Information

All tasks will be assessed using the criteria listed under the description of each task, such as: Understanding, critical evaluation, written expression (etc). A detailed rubric for each task will be supplied on iLearn.

Delivery and Resources

Coronavirus (COVID-19) Update

Any references to on-campus delivery below may no longer be relevant due to COVID-19.

Please check here for updated delivery information: https://ask.mq.edu.au/account/pub/display/unit\_status

This unit uses an iLearn website and Echo360 lecture recordings (<https://ilearn.mq.edu.au/login/MQ/>). The website contains links to lecture notes, iletecture recordings, and other learning materials. Students will therefore require access to a computer and a good internet connection in order to access all the material, and participate in the unit effectively.

Lectures are designed to provide an important foundation for tutorial discussions which will be held every week for 10 weeks. In order to get the most of those discussions and to foster a sense of common intellectual purpose, attendance is highly encouraged. If you have a regular conflict that will prevent you from attending one or both of the lectures, you should consider enrolling as an external student.

Lectures and Tutorial Times

Lectures are on Mondays 10am-12pm at 23 Wallys Walk - 105 Tutorial Rm

Tutorials take place every week on Mondays either 1pm-2pm at 23 Wallys Walk - 202 Tutorial Rm Tutorial Rm or 2pm-3pm at 4 Western Rd - 302 Tutorial Rm

Students are not required to purchase any books for this course. All readings for tutorials will be made available via iLearn. Further readings for essays will be recommended.

Readings

All readings will be made available on iLearn. Some readings and topics are taken from these textbooks:

Sterelny, K., & Griffiths, P. E. (1999). Sex and death: An introduction to philosophy of biology. University of Chicago Press. à S&G

Godfrey Smith, Peter (2013) Philosophy of Biology. Princeton Foundations of Contemporary Philosophy. Princeton University Press. à PGS
