Unit description

Since 1914 numerous new states have been created and their existence justified on the basis of the principle of national self-determination. In the last hundred years, the number of independent states has grown from around 52 to more than 195. In most cases, the new states were allegedly 'created by' or 'assigned to' individual nations. What are those powerful agents, 'nations,' that need and create states of their own? How are new states created today? Most new states created in the post-1945 period were previously European colonies outside Europe. But in the last few decades, there are very few colonies of this kind left. Most new states created after 1980 were created by secession of territories from existing states. How can one explain and justify this process of secession? The unit aims to answer these questions by examining both the processes through which territories and populations withdraw - secede - from existing states and the legal and normative framework within which these processes currently take place. In addition, recent attempts at state integration or unification, such as the European Union, and a few plans for a single world state will be briefly discussed.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

ULO1: Identify and analyse political processes in different periods and in a different social and geographical space.

ULO2: Identify, compare and contrast the salient aspects of a single political process taking place in these different temporal and spatial locations.

ULO3: Apply social science theories to identify, compare and analyse variety of social and political process.

ULO4: Apply specific social science theories in an attempt to identify the causal factors which may explain such political processes.

ULO5: Apply normative (political and ethical) theories to specific cases in order to evaluate/assess particular cases of political activity and their outcomes.

Assessment Tasks

Coronavirus (COVID-19) Update

Assessment details are no longer provided here as a result of changes due to the Coronavirus (COVID-19) pandemic.

Students should consult iLearn for revised unit information.

Find out more about the Coronavirus \(COVID-19\) and potential impacts on staff and students

General Assessment Information

Unless a Special Consideration request has been submitted and approved, (a) a penalty for lateness will apply – two (2) marks out of 100 will be deducted per day for assignments submitted after the due date – and (b) no assignment will be accepted more than seven (7) days (incl. weekends) after the original submission deadline. No late submissions will be accepted for timed assessments – e.g. quizzes, online tests.

Note also that the convenor does not grant extension to any assessment based on special considerations (for example, illness). All requests for extension need to go through the Special Consideration procedure (see Special Consideration Policy under Policies and Procedures below).

More information about each task will be available on iLearn page.

Delivery and Resources

Coronavirus (COVID-19) Update

Any references to on-campus delivery below may no longer be relevant due to COVID-19.

Please check here for updated delivery information: https://ask.mq.edu.au/account/pub/display/unit_status

There will be one two-hour lecture and one one-hour tutorial each week. A few lectures may be "flipped": lectures will be available in a video format online but the lecture session will be held. In such a case, during the lecture session, the main topics of the video lecture will be discussed: the video lecture does NOT replace the lecture session.

The attendance to both lectures and tutorials is compulsory for internal students.

If one cannot attend lectures and tutorials, one should switch, in time, to the fully online mode of delivery which does not require attendance.

There is a reading set for each week. The list of readings will be posted on the iLearn page of the unit. The readings should be available in the library Leganto system.

Policies and Procedures

Macquarie University policies and procedures are accessible from Policy Central (<https://staff.mq.edu.au/work/strategy-planning-and-governance/university-policies-and-procedures/policy-central>).
