Unit description

This unit introduces writing for screen media. Students encounter strategies for generating, researching, and developing their own creative ideas. This unit combines creative writing projects with critical analysis of selected screenworks and screenplays. Key videos relevant to assignments will be available through the MMCC 1025 iLearn page. They form part of the lecture material.

Students will be required to use their own computers for development of treatments, storyboards and scripts. It is recommended that MAS 202 students become familiar with Celtx (free script software). Microsoft Word can also be used for scriptwriting.

Unit Schedule

Lectures are live or online at 5pm on Mondays

Students are expected to attend (or, if the streaming option is selected, watch online) lectures for MMCC 1025. Lectures are not optional: they deliver important content and are a central component of meeting the learning outcomes in this unit. Students who elect to not attend/watch lectures will miss out on unit content, and do so at their own risk.

Tutorials will be on Thursdays or Fridays depending on your enrolment - one hour

Tutorials begin in week 1. Tutorials in this unit are an opportunity for you to further develop concepts introduced in the lecture and apply them to your own work. In workshops, you will have the opportunity to ask for assistance from your tutor, and receive informal feedback on work in progress. Students are expected to have watched/attended the weekly lecture and completed all required reading before attending each week's workshop. Not attending workshops will likely jeopardise your performance in this unit.

Weekly quizzes will open at 5pm on Fridays and close at midnight the following Wednesday. They are closed on Thursdays and Fridays because you are expected to do the readings, view the short films, and complete the quiz before you attend tutorials each week.

You are also encouraged to use the time in between lectures (on Mondays) and tutorials (on Thursday or Friday) for the creative exercises provided online.
