Unit description

This unit aims to provide information about children's and adolescents' development in applied contexts. There is an emphasis on theories and processes relevant to children's psychological development, and the applied significance of children's social cognitive development for public policy. The lectures are devoted to a critical appraisal of contemporary research findings and the application of these findings to children's and adolescents' everyday life. The unit comprises both a lecture series and a tutorial strand.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

ULO1: Demonstrate skills to apply child and adolescent development research to guide intervention and prevention programs.

ULO2: Understand the major concepts, theoretical perspectives, empirical findings, and historical trends in child and adolescent psychology.

ULO3: Critically and creatively analyse the child and adolescent development theories and empirical research.

ULO4: Communicate effectively in a variety of modes (e.g. written and oral).

ULO5: Recognise individual differences in child and adolescent development that vary across contexts (e.g. cultural, ethnic, and socioeconomic).
