Unit description
Cognitive radio is a broad term that applies to many modern technologies that allow wireless and telecommunications systems to provide flexibility in the field after deployment as well as high performance in basic design and analysis where traditional techniques may be found lacking. This unit will systematically identify the key elements and concepts underlying the field and work to develop specific examples applicable to today's solutions. Networks are investigated where there are primary users with assigned communication channels and secondary users who utilize channels unused by the primary users. In cognitive radio, the radio spectrum is utilized more efficiently than in other types of radio networks.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

ULO1: Design, and analyse the performance of, cognitive radio networks in which the radio spectrum is used efficiently.

ULO2: Effectively use Matlab for analysis, simulation, and visualisation of cognitive radio networks.

ULO3: Design and analyse spectrum sensing systems for Cognitive Radio Networks.

ULO4: Design and analyse communication systems using agile transmission techniques.

Assessment Tasks

Coronavirus (COVID-19) Update

Assessment details are no longer provided here as a result of changes due to the Coronavirus (COVID-19) pandemic.

Students should consult iLearn for revised unit information.

Find out more about the Coronavirus (COVID-19) and potential impacts on staff and students

General Assessment Information

Assessment with consist of a Final Examination (50%), a Report of Spectrum Sensing (35%), and a laboratory report (15%).

Delivery and Resources

Coronavirus (COVID-19) Update

Any references to on-campus delivery below may no longer be relevant due to COVID-19.

Policies and Procedures

Macquarie University policies and procedures are accessible from Policy Central (https://staff.mq.edu.au/work/strategy-planning-and-governance/university-policies-and-procedures/policy-central). Students should be aware of the following policies in particular with regard to Learning and Teaching:

- Academic Appeals Policy
- Academic Integrity Policy

- Academic Progression Policy

- Assessment Policy

- Fitness to Practice Procedure

- Grade Appeal Policy

- Complaint Management Procedure for Students and Members of the Public

- Special Consideration Policy (Note: The Special Consideration Policy is effective from 4 December 2017 and replaces the Disruption to Studies Policy.)

Students seeking more policy resources can visit the Student Policy Gateway (https://students.mq.edu.au/support/study/student-policy-gateway). It is your one-stop-shop for the key policies you need to know about throughout your undergraduate student journey.

If you would like to see all the policies relevant to Learning and Teaching visit Policy Central (https://staff.mq.edu.au/work/strategy-planning-and-governance/university-policies-and-procedures/policy-central).

Student Code of Conduct

Macquarie University students have a responsibility to be familiar with the Student Code of Conduct: https://students.mq.edu.au/study/getting-started/student-conduct

Results

Results published on platform other than eStudent, (eg. iLearn, Coursera etc.) or released directly by your Unit Convenor, are not confirmed as they are subject to final approval by the University. Once approved, final results will be sent to your student email address and will be made available in eStudent.
