Unit description

This unit explores the practices and philosophies underpinning leadership and motivation, encouraging students to develop integrative, complex thinking. Case studies from around the world enable participants to evaluate theoretical and empirical contributions to leadership while reflecting on their own leadership and motivation practices. The unit focuses on leadership's important contribution to high performance and resilience in an enterprise, with particular emphasis on sustainable leadership practices. The overriding objective is to equip students with a theoretical understanding and set of tools and frameworks that enable them to diagnose leadership issues and propose responsible solutions in complex, diverse global contexts.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

ULO1: Analyse and describe the theoretical and research contributions underpinning leadership and motivation.

ULO2: Critically analyse global leadership by diagnosing applied aspects of leadership and motivation in diverse contexts through case studies, both as an individual and a group.

ULO3: Analyse the importance of diverse ethical leadership principles.

ULO4: Assess the relationship between leadership and effective managerial performance.
