Unit description

This Unit is anchored in ancient sources. The ancient history courses you have done by now will have introduced you to ancient history methodology and historiography. This course will focus on these two approaches more deeply, discussing ancient sources and (re)sources as they affect Greek, Roman, and Late Antique as well as Egyptian and Near Eastern history. The hope is that you will be exposed to these things in ways different from your previous studies, or even, perhaps, for the first time. In the process, you will add to your knowledge gained during the degree program, and adopt a reflective approach to all work done during that time and now.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

ULO1: consolidate knowledge in relation to the historical processes and fundamental historical developments of the civilizations and periods we study in the ancient world.

ULO2: demonstrate sophisticated research skills and ability to critically evaluate ancient sources and their modern interpretations.

ULO3: formulate arguments and present written and oral arguments related to studying and interpreting ancient history.

ULO4: appreciate larger issues that engage ancient historians in source analysis.

General Assessment Information

- 1) Submit ALL written work via turnitin; instructions for each assignment are on the iLearn site.
- 2) LATE PENALTY: Unless a Special Consideration request has been submitted and approved, (a) a penalty for lateness will apply – two (2) marks out of 100 will be deducted per day for assignments submitted after the due date – and (b) no assignment will be accepted more than seven (7) days (incl. weekends) after the original submission deadline. No late submissions will be accepted for timed assessments – e.g. quizzes, online tests.
- 3) IMPORTANT NOTE ON FINAL MARKS: The department has moved to include the following statement concerning all of its courses with respect to the marks you receive for work during the session: 'that the marks given are indicative only; final marks will be determined after moderation'.
- 4) Do not plagiarise: plagiarism will not be tolerated; see 'MQ Academic Honesty': http://www.mq.edu.au/policy/docs/academic_honesty/policy.html
