Unit description
This unit is an introduction to archaeological study of ancient Mediterranean societies, with particular reference to Greek culture. It investigates how archaeological fieldwork is conducted and focuses on the artefacts and sites of the ancient societies, all with the aim of better understanding the people who made and used those artefacts and who lived out their lives in those sites. This unit also incorporates practical analytical exercises of artefacts in the University's Museum.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

- ULO1: Employ appropriate handling techniques when dealing with ancient artefacts.
- ULO2: Identify the place of manufacture, time period, and original use of artefacts from the time periods covered in this unit.
- ULO3: Identify and discuss the relative values of different archaeological theories and methods
- ULO4: Extract historical information from ancient remains in order to understand the society that produced them.

ULO5: Identify, analyse, and interpret archaeological artefacts and site plans.

General Assessment Information

General Information:

Rubrics and other guidance for the Assessments will be posted on our iLearn site. I will also discuss everything in class and one of our tutorials will be devoted to my tips on How to Write a Research Essay.

EXTENSION REQUESTS:

Please always let me know ahead of time if you are having difficulty completing an assessment or if you will not be able to attend class or complete a tutorial task. It's just good for me to know what is going on with you. I will try to help!

But - keep in mind that this University policy is very important: unless a Special Consideration request has been submitted and approved, (a) a penalty for lateness will apply – two (2) marks out of 100 will be deducted per day for assignments submitted after the due date – and (b) no assignment will be accepted more than seven (7) days (incl. weekends) after the original submission deadline. No late submissions will be accepted for timed assessments – e.g. quizzes, online tests.

IMPORTANT NOTE ON FINAL MARKS: Please note with respect to the marks you receive for work during the session: that the marks given are indicative only; final marks will be determined after moderation. See further the note on Results in the Policies and Procedures section below.

Assessment Tasks

Name	Weighting	Hurdle	Due
Preparation and Participation (group work, mini-presentations, written responses, visual recognition tasks, treasure hunt in the Museum)	15%	No	Weekly
Online Quizzes	30%	No	Weeks 3-12
Artefact Essay	20%	No	Week 7, Friday, 11 Sept, 11:59 pm
Research Essay	35%	No	Week 13, Friday, 6 Nov, 11:59 pm

Preparation and Participation (group work, mini-presentations, written responses, visual recognition tasks, treasure hunt in the Museum)

Assessment Type ¹: Participatory task

Indicative Time on Task ²: 0 hours

Due: Weekly

Weighting: 15%

With questions prepared to guide them in their investigations, the students will be asked to discuss different archaeological methods, theories, artefacts, and sites with the aim of having them acquire the ability to analyse these things for themselves and to arrive at their own insights and theories concerning the people and their societies that they are studying. The goal is for them to become active thinkers and researchers so that they can then apply these skills to any field they enter in their lives. They will also engage with objects in the Museum's collection.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Employ appropriate handling techniques when dealing with ancient artefacts.
- Identify the place of manufacture, time period, and original use of artefacts from the time periods covered in this unit.
- Identify and discuss the relative values of different archaeological theories and methods
- Extract historical information from ancient remains in order to understand the society that produced them.
- Identify, analyse, and interpret archaeological artefacts and site plans.

Online Quizzes

Assessment Type ¹: Quiz/Test

Indicative Time on Task ²: 2 hours

Due: Weeks 3-12

Weighting: 30%

There will be 10 online quizzes

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Employ appropriate handling techniques when dealing with ancient artefacts.
- Identify the place of manufacture, time period, and original use of artefacts from the time periods covered in this unit.
- Extract historical information from ancient remains in order to understand the society that produced them.

Artefact Essay

Assessment Type ¹: Essay

Indicative Time on Task ²: 15 hours

Due: Week 7, Friday, 11 Sept, 11:59 pm

Weighting: 20%

Students will analyse an artefact from the Museum's collection as an archaeologist would.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Employ appropriate handling techniques when dealing with ancient artefacts.
- Identify and discuss the relative values of different archaeological theories and methods
- Extract historical information from ancient remains in order to understand the society that produced them.
- Identify, analyse, and interpret archaeological artefacts and site plans.

Research Essay

Assessment Type ¹: Essay

Indicative Time on Task ²: 25 hours

Due: Week 13, Friday, 6 Nov, 11:59 pm

Weighting: 35%

The students will research a site in order to discuss the society of the people who lived there.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Employ appropriate handling techniques when dealing with ancient artefacts.
- Identify the place of manufacture, time period, and original use of artefacts from the time periods covered in this unit.
- Identify and discuss the relative values of different archaeological theories and methods
- Extract historical information from ancient remains in order to understand the society that produced them.
- Identify, analyse, and interpret archaeological artefacts and site plans.

- the academic teaching staff in your unit for guidance in understanding or completing this type of assessment
- the Writing Centre for academic skills support.

² Indicative time-on-task is an estimate of the time required for completion of the assessment task and is subject to individual variation

Delivery and Resources

DELIVERY

Lectures: Fully Online. You will be able to access the lectures through our iLearn site.

It is important for this class that you are able to watch and engage with the lecture -- using the Tutorial Questions (also posted to the iLearn site) as a guide -- before our in-person tutorials. It is also important to have read all of that week's assigned readings. For this reason I've decided to post our second lecture on Monday of Week 2, but hold NO TUTORIAL in that week. Rather, the tutorial on the Monday of Week 3 will be keyed to the lecture posted in Week 2. I'll continue to post the lectures a week ahead of time so that you will always have time to watch the lecture, do the readings, and engage with the Tutorial Questions well before the relevant tutorial. I'll discuss this system in our first tutorial to make sure everything is clear!

Tutorials: Live on campus! Hurray!!

I am happy to say that the University has recognized this as a class whose content is delivered most effectively through face-to-face tutorials. This makes sense because we will be using the Museum of Ancient Cultures and its artefacts for a few of our tutorials. I also like to work on the Tutorial Questions with you and very often I will be having you break into groups to discuss them before coming back together to talk about them all together. I will also ask for written responses to be turned in from time to time. As I will have posted the lecture on the previous Monday, you will have an entire week to watch the lecture, do the readings, and prepare your responses to the Tutorial Questions before our tutorials. I am very much hoping that the circumstances in the world will allow us to continue with this mode of operating until the end of the term!

QUIZZES

There will be 10 multiple choice quizzes, consisting of 5 questions each. Each quiz will be worth 3% of your final mark. The quizzes will occur in Weeks 3-12. They will be found in the iLearn section for each week in which there is a quiz. Once commenced, the quizzes must be completed in one 10-minute session. Marks will become available when the quiz is no longer open.

The idea behind these quizzes is to motivate you to keep up with the class lectures and the readings so that you will be prepared to participate in the tutorials. For this reason the quizzes will open in the afternoon after the Monday tutorials and close at 11:59 pm on the next day (Tuesday), with the expectation that you will have done the reading and listened to the lecture before the tutorial, and be prepared to take the quiz right after. I built in one day after the tutorial in case there is anything you want to review after you've participated in the tutorial. Note that the first quiz in Week 3 will cover material from the first two lectures.

READINGS

The main textbook for this course, which I have ordered with the new system in Booktopia, is:

Biers, W. R. 1996. The Archaeology of Greece: An Introduction, 2nd Edition. Cornell University Press.

You will also find additional required readings on our iLearn site for each week. Very often there will be separate readings for the lectures and for the tutorials, with the reading for the lecture being introductory material and the readings for the tutorials consisting of academic articles that will take your knowledge of the topic further. These are generally what we will focus on in the tutorials. The quizzes, which will open soon after the tutorials finish and close at 11:59 pm the day after, will be on all the readings for that week and on the lecture, so be sure that you have done the readings and done the readings before attempting the quiz!

OTHER RESOURCES You will find Tutorial Questions in each Week's section that you will use to guide your reading of the articles and your understanding of the lectures. We will discuss the Tutorial Questions during the tutorials.

I will post the Powerpoint of the lectures to the relevant Week's section of our iLearn site.

The artefacts chosen for the Artefact Study will be 3D-scanned and their links will be posted to our iLearn site.

We will also be using the new Museum of Ancient Cultures and its artefacts in the Arts Precinct for several of our tutorials!

UNIT WEBPAGE AND TECHNOLOGY USED AND REQUIRED

This unit will use the iLearn system (<https://ilearn.mq.edu.au/login/MQ/>) to communicate with the students, so you will need access to a computer and a good internet connection. Basic computer and word-processing skills are also required.

Unit Schedule

Please see our iLearn page for the unit schedule.
