Unit description

This core unit in the Master of Research specialisation in Anthropology provides a grounding in theoretical, methodological and interpretive issues currently being debated by anthropologists. The seminars deal with a selected number of theoretical, methodological and interpretative issues that are currently debated in the discipline. These issues will vary from year to year according to contemporary developments in Anthropology and the interests of the course convener, and in terms of how current concerns in the discipline link to the theoretical issues addressed by students. Others may be more enduring, such as the theoretical issues related to the 'writing culture' debate, 'orientalism' and the problem of the 'other', cultural relativism, politics and power, and the relation between individual and society.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

ULO1: Apply core anthropological theories to both your own life as a member of society and to the social processes of the world around you

ULO2: Demonstrate mastery of emerging theoretical and methodological issues central to Anthropology

ULO3: Conceptualise the ways that different scholars have theorised the creation of culture by subjects as well as the creation of subjects by culture

ULO4: Consider issues of social and cultural reproduction and domination; the creation of subjectivity through inter-subjective encounter; the self-institution of society; and the individual as creator of their world beyond their conditioning by pre-existing cultural frameworks

Assessment Tasks

Name	Weighting	Hurdle	Due
Major Esaay	60%	No	6 November
Seminar Participation	25%	No	Continuing
Seminar Presentation	15%	No	Chosen by students

Major Esaay

Assessment Type ¹: Essay

Indicative Time on Task ²: 73 hours

Due: 6 November

Weighting: 60%

The essay should relate, compare and critically assess the work of two or more of the scholars to the major themes of the unit - cultural creativity, agency (agents), structures and world-making. In the essay students critically focus on where the scholars identify sources of creativity or change, and how the texts articulate society and the individual - or in what terms.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Demonstrate mastery of emerging theoretical and methodological issues central to Anthropology
- Conceptualise the ways that different scholars have theorised the creation of culture by subjects as well as the creation of subjects by culture
- Consider issues of social and cultural reproduction and domination; the creation of subjectivity through inter-subjective encounter; the self-institution of society; and the individual as creator of their world beyond their conditioning by pre-existing cultural frameworks

Seminar Participation

Assessment Type ¹: Participatory task

Indicative Time on Task ²: 26 hours

Due: Continuing

Weighting: 25%

To facilitate seminar discussion, non-presenting students are required to submit a one page response to the reading(s) each week, structured according to the three 'Is': insight, interest, and incomprehension. Find in the reading(s) what you thought was the author's main insight; something of particular interest to you; and something that seems confusing or even incomprehensible that you would like to discuss. The seminar mark will be awarded on the basis of the written work as well as on seminar participation.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Apply core anthropological theories to both your own life as a member of society and to the social processes of the world around you
- Demonstrate mastery of emerging theoretical and methodological issues central to Anthropology
- Conceptualise the ways that different scholars have theorised the creation of culture by subjects as well as the creation of subjects by culture
- Consider issues of social and cultural reproduction and domination; the creation of subjectivity through inter-subjective encounter; the self-institution of society; and the individual as creator of their world beyond their conditioning by pre-existing cultural frameworks

Seminar Presentation

Assessment Type ¹: Presentation

Indicative Time on Task ²: 8 hours

Due: Chosen by students

Weighting: 15%

Over the duration of the unit, each student will give a brief introduction to the week's reading(s), drawing out its main themes and selecting a number of questions or conundrums for the seminar to discuss. These facilitation of the discussion can be used by the students to focus on something interesting, maddening or confusing about the reading.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Apply core anthropological theories to both your own life as a member of society and to the social processes of the world around you
- Demonstrate mastery of emerging theoretical and methodological issues central to Anthropology
- Conceptualise the ways that different scholars have theorised the creation of culture by subjects as well as the creation of subjects by culture
