Unit description

This unit gives students an opportunity to develop and demonstrate advanced research skills by undertaking independent research under academic supervision. The unit requires completion of a dissertation of approximately 4-5000 words in one semester on a topic within the scope of international relations. Students formulate their research topic in consultation with an academic supervisor, and their topic must be approved by the convenor as suitable for an MIR dissertation. This unit is designed to help prepare students for more extended independent research in the Master of Research or elsewhere. Applications to undertake this unit close four weeks before the start of each semester in which it is offered. As part of the application process students are required to submit an Expression of Interest Form and to have confirmed that a member of staff in the discipline of Politics and International Relations is willing to act as their supervisor. Admission will only be possible for students who have maintained a Credit average across previous MIR units.
