Unit description

A growing body of research from criminology, psychology, sociology, media studies, and gender studies focuses on gender in relation to crime and violence. How are the social constructions of masculinity and femininity, within and across cultures, implicated in the conduct and character of crime and violence? The unit explores this question across a range of topics. Gender is complicated by other dimensions of difference: race and ethnicity, class, religion, nationality and sexuality, and these are also considered. The gendered constructions of both perpetrators and victims of crime and violence are considered. The focus on conflicts and displacements makes the unit go from the personal to the transnational and from the intimate sphere to global geopolitics.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

ULO1: Demonstrate an understanding of gender, crime and violence from a transnational perspective.

ULO2: Demonstrate an understanding of the complexity and significance of feminist approaches to criminology and an intersectional framework for giving a gendered account of crime.

ULO3: Analyse critically a variety of texts (documentaries, novels, media articles, poems, news clips) and data sources concerning gender within their historical, social and theoretical contexts.

ULO4: Demonstrate the ability to examine the relationship between forms of knowledge and forms of everyday living.

ULO5: Demonstrate the ability to examine the ways in which the social construction of gender is implicated in the conduct and character of crime

ULO6: Demonstrate an understanding of the importance of race when we discussing and analysing crime.

General Assessment Information

Important Note in relation to the assessment “Weekly Answers”:

The explanation provided for the “Weekly Answers” assessment in this unit guide states that:

“Regular contribution to the weekly group discussion forum is a requirement of this unit. Participation should provide evidence of the student having done the readings, listened to the lecture and thought about the topics in relation to both local and global contexts.”

Please, note that there is an error in the CMS system that generated this description. The error is related to what is underlined above. Please, note that the weekly group Discussion Forum is not the space where Special Circumstance students have their tutorial. Special Circumstance students have zoom tutorials. The iLearn site provides the zoom link that will take you to your zoom tutorial every week. Please, use it.

Detailed Assessment Guidelines explaining the requirements for each assignment are available on the GEND3010 iLearn page in the Assessment Resources section. It is necessary to have read these guidelines in order to successfully complete each task.

All essays are to be submitted electronically through Turnitin on the GEND3010 iLearn page.

For any extensions please lodge a special consideration request via <http://ask.mq.edu.au> . Approved extensions will not incur a late penalty.

Late Submission Penalty

“Unless a Special Consideration request has been submitted and approved, (a) a penalty for lateness will apply – Two (2) marks out of 100 will be deducted per day for assignments submitted after the due date – and (b) no assignment will be accepted more than seven (7) days (incl. weekends) after the original submission deadline. No late submissions will be accepted for timed assessments – e.g. quizzes, online tests.”
