Unit description

Public international law regulates the legal issues that have global or transboundary dimensions. Through this unit students evaluate the effectiveness of international law in addressing real problems that confront the international community. The unit provides an introduction to public international law's key principles, rules, norms and practices. Coverage includes the role of the United Nations, the law of treaties, the rights and responsibilities of states vis-a-vis each other, their own nationals and those of other states, the limits of state jurisdiction, state and diplomatic immunity, international dispute settlement and the relationship between international law and Australia's legal system.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

ULO1: Demonstrate an advanced knowledge of the fundamental principles of public international law including the identification and analysis of key primary sources of international law including treaties and case law.

ULO2: Describe the role, rights and responsibilities of some major international organisations under international law.

ULO3: Apply international law to complex situations and explain the operation of the rights and responsibilities of states in relation to other states; international institutions; private interests and domestic populations.

ULO4: Critically analyse the relationship between international and national law, particularly Australian law.

ULO5: Describe and assess the various means for dispute resolution at international law

General Assessment Information

Unless a Special Consideration request has been submitted and approved, (a) a penalty for lateness will apply – two (2) marks out of 100 will be deducted per day for assignments submitted after the due date – and (b) no assignment will be accepted more than seven (7) days (incl. weekends) after the original submission deadline. No late submissions will be accepted for timed assessments – e.g. quizzes, online tests. Word limits will be strictly applied and work above the word limit will not be marked. Foot notes are only to be used for referencing. Substantive material in footnotes will not be marked. All written assessments in the unit are to be submitted electronically via Turnitin. Plagiarism detection software is used in this unit. All written assessments must be appropriately referenced, applying the Australian Guide to Legal Citation (4th ed). The Guide is available here <<http://mulr.law.unimelb.edu.au/go/AGLC3>>. Assessments must be submitted in a double line spaced text, 12 point, Times New Roman font. Headings and subheadings should be used where appropriate. Detailed marking rubrics will be made available on iLearn. Markers in this Unit undertake a process to establish a common marking standard and all fail papers are double marked.

Delivery and Resources

Lectures

This unit consists of 13 topics, as set out on the iLearn website. Each topic will be covered in a recorded lecture, which will be made available in Echo360. Lectures are intended to provide an overview of the topic, indicate its most essential aspects and, hopefully, make the related readings more interesting and accessible.

Intensive on-campus sessions for external students will be delivered online. The 12-hour session will be divided into six 2-hour sessions starting during the session break. These six sessions will be conducted using a combination of Zoom Webinars and online discussions. Details of these sessions will be posted on iLearn.

Readings

The lectures should give you a broad overview of the subject, but it is vital that you then develop your understanding by completing the related readings. The prescribed textbook for this unit is:

James Crawford, Brownlie's Principles of Public International Law, 9th edition, Oxford University Press 2019

Other readings, both essential and recommended, will be provided via Leganto and accessible via iLearn. In addition to the secondary sources (book chapters, journal articles, etc), you are expected to consult relevant primary legal sources (treaties, draft articles, cases, etc.) as much as possible. It should be evident to you from the lectures and secondary sources which primary sources (and which parts of those primary sources) are most important. You will need to consult primary sources to complete assignments. All relevant primary sources are available online, and you are expected to have sufficient research skills to locate and download them.
