Unit description
Language learning beyond the language classroom plays a crucial role in the development of high levels of language proficiency. Increasing attention to language learning beyond the classroom is also influencing thinking on key concepts in Second Language Acquisition (SLA) research that has hitherto been based largely on classroom research. In this course, students will explore recent research on language learning beyond the classroom, and examine its impact on SLA. Emphasising an ecological view of relationships between out-of-class learning and in-class learning, the course will cover the roles of intentional and incidental learning inside and outside the classroom, debates on the need for instruction in SLA, and the implications of research on language learning beyond the classroom for our understanding of the concepts of autonomy, learning strategies and motivation.

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

ULO1: Articulate the contribution of in-class and out-of-class activities to your own second language learning

ULO2: Explain key terms and concepts that have been developed to account for language learning beyond the classroom

ULO3: Demonstrate an in-depth understanding of distinctions between intentional and incidental, explicit and implicit learning and their application to a range of in-class and out-of-class learning activities

ULO4: Critically evaluate research literature on autonomy, learning strategies and motivation from the perspective of language learning beyond the classroom

ULO5: Apply a theoretical understanding of ecologies of language learning to the learning of a particular individual or group of language learners

General Assessment Information

How to apply for a late submission of an assignment

All requests for special consideration, including extensions, must be submitted via ASK@mq.edu.au and provide suitable supporting documentation.

Late Assignment Submission

- Late submissions without an extension may receive a penalty of 5% of the total mark available for the assignment per day
- Late submission of an assignment without an extension will not be permitted after marks have been released to the rest of the class.
- Extensions will only be given in special circumstances, and can be requested by completing the Special Consideration request at ask.mq.edu.au and providing the requisite supporting documentation.
- For more information on Special Consideration, see the university website: https://students.mq.edu.au/study/my-study-program/special-consideration
- Assignments submitted after the deadline, regardless of the reason, will be marked and returned at a date determined by the unit convenor.

Extensions cannot continue beyond the start of the following semester, and students should be aware that long extensions may impact graduation dates.

Language learning history

Assessment Type: Reflective Writing
Indicative Time on Task: 10 hours
Due: Week 3 - August 10th, 11.59pm Sydney time
Weighting: 20%

Students write their own individual language learning history, focusing on the relative contributions of in-class and out-of-class activities to their learning of one or more second or foreign languages (1000 words).

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Articulate the contribution of in-class and out-of-class activities to your own second language learning
- Apply a theoretical understanding of ecologies of language learning to the learning of a particular individual or group of language learners

Concept check

Assessment Type: Quiz/Test
Indicative Time on Task: 20 hours
Due: Week 6 - September 2nd-4th Sydney time
Weighting: 30%

An online, short-answer quiz on concepts introduced in the first six sessions of the unit.

On successful completion you will be able to:

https://unitguides.mq.edu.au/unit_offerings/128906/unit_guide/print
• Articulate the contribution of in-class and out-of-class activities to your own second language learning
• Explain key terms and concepts that have been developed to account for language learning beyond the classroom
• Demonstrate an in-depth understanding of distinctions between intentional and incidental, explicit and implicit learning and their application to a range of in-class and out-of-class learning activities
• Critically evaluate research literature on autonomy, learning strategies and motivation from the perspective of language learning beyond the classroom

Independent inquiry project
Assessment Type 1: Report
Indicative Time on Task 2: 40 hours
Due: Monday, November 16th, 11.59pm Sydney time
Weighting: 50%

A report describing and analyzing the language learning of an individual or group of language learners from a language learning ecology perspective. The report should include a short literature review (500-750 words) on key terms and theoretical concepts. The main body of the report should be based on an independent inquiry project and consist of an analytical description of the individual’s/group’s language learning, based on observation, interview or survey data within the parameters prescribed in the detailed assignment description (Total 2500 words)

On successful completion you will be able to:
• Explain key terms and concepts that have been developed to account for language learning beyond the classroom
• Demonstrate an in-depth understanding of distinctions between intentional and incidental, explicit and implicit learning and their application to a range of in-class and out-of-class learning activities
• Critically evaluate research literature on autonomy, learning strategies and motivation from the perspective of language learning beyond the classroom
• Apply a theoretical understanding of ecologies of language learning to the learning of a particular individual or group of language learners

1 If you need help with your assignment, please contact:
• the academic teaching staff in your unit for guidance in understanding or completing this type of assessment
• the Learning Skills Unit for academic skills support.

Indicative time-on-task is an estimate of the time required for completion of the assessment task and is subject to individual variation

Delivery and Resources

Online resources are available through the APPL8260 iLearn site. Weekly readings are available through Leganto on the Library website (and also accessible through iLearn). Weekly sessions will be conducted online via Zoom due to the global COVID19 pandemic. These sessions will be recorded and available on iLearn.
