Unit description

This unit examines the theory and practice of test used in professional psychology. The unit teaches key aspects of the administration, scoring and interpretation of a broad range of tests likely to be utilised in professional psychology practice, including: child and adult intelligence tests; personality tests; and tests of emotional well-being, general psychological distress, and psycho-social functioning. Students are instructed in the writing of reports in which the results of test data have to be communicated. Issues involved in the testing of special populations, such as individuals with brain injury are considered and practical experience in administration, scoring and interpretation is provided through live skills assessment. Issues of cross-cultural assessment and culture fair testing are also considered, along with practical considerations relating to the use of tests in different practice settings, including private practice.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

ULO1: Review the varied aspects of psychological test validity and assessment procedures, in line with current research and theory.

ULO2: Integrate and synthesise the learning and knowledge of administration, scoring and interpretation of the major psychological tests commonly used in psychological practice.

ULO3: Explain the procedures involved in writing sound psychological assessment reports.

ULO4: Recognise the cultural and diverse ethical issues and obstacles that arise when conducting psychological assessments and reporting results.

General Assessment Information

On iLearn you will find detailed descriptions of your assessment tasks including Rubrics and Gold Standards of reports prepared by other students.

This is a hurdle assessment task (see assessment policy for more information on hurdle assessment tasks)

This assessment enables students to demonstrate minimum competency in psychology skills integral to writing interpretative reports.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Review the varied aspects of psychological test validity and assessment procedures, in line with current research and theory.
- Integrate and synthesise the learning and knowledge of administration, scoring and interpretation of the major psychological tests commonly used in psychological practice.
- Explain the procedures involved in writing sound psychological assessment reports.
- Recognise the cultural and diverse ethical issues and obstacles that arise when conducting psychological assessments and reporting results.

- the academic teaching staff in your unit for guidance in understanding or completing this type of assessment
- the Writing Centre for academic skills support.

² Indicative time-on-task is an estimate of the time required for completion of the assessment task and is subject to individual variation

Delivery and Resources

If you have a laptop it is useful to bring it to class. You will be provided with a WAIS-IV kit in class to share between 3 people.

There are three texts that are recommended for this course:

For assistance in understanding the WAIS-IV

Lichtenberger, E.O. & Kaufman, A.S. (2013). Essentials of WAIS-IV Assessment. 2nd Edition. Wiley.

For assistance in understanding the PAI

Morey, L.C. (2003). Essentials of PAI Assessment. Wiley

For assistance with AHPRA style report writing

Pelling, N.J. & Burton, L.J. (2018). The elements of psychological case report writing in Australia. Taylor & Francis.

For AHPRA case reports

Unit Schedule

The unit is comprised of lectures and workshops. All parts are compulsory and absence can only be covered by sick certificates. In all cases a special consideration request must be completed through this portal here Student Portal - Special consideration \(mq.edu.au\).

If more than one workshop per unit is missed, then the student is at risk of being excluded and university rules may apply. Make up tasks must be completed to pass.

Learning and Teaching Activities

Workshops – 1 Psychometrics, interviewing and report writing

Important considerations in test selection, how to conduct an intake interview and write case reports using the AHPRA guidelines (6 hrs)

Workshop – 2. Assessing intelligence

Learning how to administer and score the WAIS-IV

Workshop – 3. Personality Assessment

Scoring and interpreting the Personality Assessment Inventory

Workshop – 4. Measuring well-being and practising the WAIS-IV

Administering, scoring and interpreting the DASS and K10. Scoring the WAIS-IV and using results

Workshop - 5. Working with children, using the SCID and report writing 2

Scoring and interpreting the Strengths and Difficulties Questionnaire, using the SCID for detailed diagnosis and differentiating great from good reports.
