Unit description

Good storytelling is at the heart of narrative journalism - the long-form journalism that goes beyond the "who, what, when, and where" of straight news reporting. This unit introduces students to the practice of immersion, which is key to narrative journalism. Students are asked to come out from behind their desks to research their stories through interviewing and first-hand observational fieldwork, before writing short pieces to convey what they've found. The resulting stories aim to give readers a sense of the character of the people, places, events or objects chosen by the students, in factual, detailed and engaging ways.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

ULO1: identify and critique key issues raised in the production of narrative journalism, while gaining an overview of the history of the genre.

ULO2: research, synthesise and apply information in the context of a creative writing project.

ULO3: apply writing techniques of a high standard.

ULO4: synthesize and critically analyse a variety of readings chosen as instructive on the craft of writing and use these to reflect on one's own writing.

ULO5: evaluate the complexity of ethical issues in the field.

ULO6: communicate ideas about narrative journalism article and writing genres in both oral and written forms.

General Assessment Information

Assignment Submission:

A high level of critical engagement with the set texts and active participation in the lectures and workshops is essential for passing this unit.

Rubrics are provided for each assignment that give information about the standards required to meet the learning outcomes at each of the grading levels - high distinction through to fail. Please be aware that the failure to meet one of the learning outcomes specified for each grading level can result in a lower grade. For example, students who do not complete the assignments ethically will fail, even if they successfully meet the learning outcomes in other areas.

Assignments are to be submitted through Turnitin on iLearn. The assignments are varied but all relate to building professional non-fiction writing skills. They will be assessed according to the appropriate rubrics.

Correct use of grammar, accurate spelling, demonstrated depth of research where appropriate and evidence that you have thought deeply about your subject matter are other important factors in assessing your work. Meeting the set deadline and presenting the work according to specifications will improve your mark. Group and individual feedback will be provided wherever possible.

While you are encouraged to show your work to your student colleagues for feedback, please be aware that the piece you submit must be your own work. Substantial editing by other people - family, friends, colleagues or professionals - is not permitted.

Presenting work for assessment

In the Writing strand we work on the assumption that you are preparing all coursework as if you were presenting material to real editors in the real world. Editors are people who read for a living. They read a lot. They read thousands of words a day and make decisions about it. If your work is poorly presented, what they will decide is that you are wasting their time. Consequently, marks will be deducted for failing to present work in an appropriate manner that would not offend the eyes of a professional editor.

Use the following checklist before handing in any work:

1. Typed, double spaced, with wide margins. 2. Spelling checked, including proper names 3. Word count done (where required) and printed at the end of the piece. 4. Grammar correct. 5 All book, film and other titles in italics.

Late Assignments:

Unless a Special Consideration request has been submitted and approved, (a) a penalty for lateness will apply for the Research Assignment and the Narrative Journalism Article assignment – two (2) marks out of 100 will be deducted per day for assignments submitted after the due date – and (b) no assignment will be accepted more than seven (7) days (including weekends) after the original submission deadline. No late submissions will be accepted for timed assessments – e.g. quizzes, online tests.

Students will not be marked on the exercises they bring to class; however, each failure to do class exercises in the required week will automatically result in the loss of 2 marks from the final class participation mark, unless the student can provide a medical certificate or other evidence of illness or misadventure.

You are required to attend all tutorials. As participation in the process of learning is linked to and underpins the unit Learning Outcomes, you will need to either apply for Disruptions to Studies to cover any missed tutorial (if the disruption is greater than three consecutive days) or supply appropriate documentation to your unit convenor for any missed tutorial (if less than three consecutive days).

Plagiarism

Plagiarism is the unacknowledged use of other peoples' work or ideas. It is a serious academic offence and attracts severe penalties. It is your responsibility to know what plagiarism is, and how to avoid it.

Permission Slips and Publication Wavier Forms

When a student interviews a real person face-to-face, over the telephone, via email or through any other means, they must provide that person with information about the interview and how the resulting information gathered will be used. Students must also obtain written or emailed confirmation that their interview subject has understood and agreed to such uses. A standard form for this purpose is attached to the study guide (Permission Slip). The relevant form must be completed and attached to all assignments that involve interviews.

When students submit their work to a newspaper, magazine, website or other publication, whether seeking payment or not, they must obtain written agreement that the publisher will assume total responsibility for the publication of the story and indemnify the writer against any action arising from such publication. A standard form for this purpose -- a publication waiver -- must be used and can be obtained from the unit convenor.

Note: Your assignments will not be marked unless the required Permission Slip is completed and attached to the work for each person interviewed. Students should keep copies of all completed forms.

² Indicative time-on-task is an estimate of the time required for completion of the assessment task and is subject to individual variation

Delivery and Resources

Delivery - Day.

Lectures will start in Week 1 and tutorials will start in Week 2.

The lectures in this unit will be pre-recorded. There will be no live lectures - they will be delivered weekly online in Echo360 and can be accessed via iLearn.

The majority of the tutorials will be face-to-face on campus although some online tutorials have been opened using Zoom.

Assignments are to be submitted via Turnitin.

For current updates, lecture times and classrooms please consult the MQ Timetables website: <http://www.timetables.mq.edu.au>.

Lockdown: In the event of another lockdown, we will shift to all online classes.

Resources:

Each week during the course students will be asked to read articles relevant to the topic at hand. These will be listed each week in iLearn. The articles can either be sourced online or via the library.

Technology:

Lectures will be available on iLearn and some tutorials will be run on Zoom. Announcements, assignment tasks and other materials to be used in tutorials will be posted as needed on iLearn. The short quizzes can be accessed on iLearn. Assignments are to be submitted via Turnitin.
