Session 2 Learning and Teaching Update

The decision has been made to conduct study online for the remainder of Session 2 for all units WITHOUT mandatory on-campus learning activities. Exams for Session 2 will also be online where possible to do so.

This is due to the extension of the lockdown orders and to provide certainty around arrangements for the remainder of Session 2. We hope to return to campus beyond Session 2 as soon as it is safe and appropriate to do so.

Some classes/teaching activities cannot be moved online and must be taught on campus. You should already know if you are in one of these classes/teaching activities and your unit convenor will provide you with more information via iLearn. If you want to confirm, see the list of units with mandatory on-campus classes/teaching activities.

Visit the MQ COVID-19 information page for more detail.

Unit description

This unit adopts an interdisciplinary approach to understand and critically engage with the legal frameworks governing the rights of refugees and other forced migrants. Students will develop a robust understanding of the international refugee law system, as well as its implementation and operation in Australia and abroad. This will involve an examination of the elements of the refugee definition in the Convention on the Status of Refugees and other relevant protections under international law, mechanisms in place for refugee status determination and appeals, and the jurisprudence that has developed internationally and in Australia relating to the rights of asylum seekers, refugees and other persons in need of protection. Refugee protection is one of the most controversial issues in Australian and international politics today. We will explore the historical and political climate in which international instruments and domestic policies were created, and the contemporary context in which they are implemented. The doctrinal and political understanding of the current state of refugee protection will lay the groundwork for a critical engagement with current practices and developing policy and law reform proposals aimed at enhancing refugee protection.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

ULO1: Articulate a comprehensive understanding of the definition of a refugee in the UN Convention relating to the Status of Refugees

ULO2: Critically evaluate Australia's current refugee and border control policies, their compatibility with international law, and their impact on the refugee policies of other countries

ULO3: Engage in nuanced, original and critical reflection on the social and political dimensions of the refugee debate

ULO4: Create novel policy and law reform proposals aimed at enhancing refugee protection in Australia and abroad

ULO5: Critically evaluate the strengths and shortcomings of the current international refugee protection regime

General Assessment Information

Unless a Special Consideration request has been submitted and approved, (a) a penalty for lateness will apply – 10 marks out of 100 credit will be deducted per day for assignments submitted after the due date – and (b) no assignment will be accepted seven days (incl. weekends) after the original submission deadline.

² Indicative time-on-task is an estimate of the time required for completion of the assessment task and is subject to individual variation

Delivery and Resources

There are more people forcibly displaced around the world today than at any other time in modern history. This unit adopts an interdisciplinary approach to understand and critically engage with the legal frameworks governing the rights of these persons. Students will develop a robust understanding of the international refugee law system, as well as its implementation and operation in Australia and abroad.

This will involve an examination of the elements of the refugee definition in the Convention on the Status of Refugees and other relevant protections under international law, mechanisms in place for refugee status determination and appeals, and the jurisprudence that has developed internationally and in Australia relating to the rights of asylum seekers, refugees and other persons in need of protection.

Refugee protection is one of the most controversial issues in Australian and international politics today. We will explore the historical and political climate in which international instruments and domestic policies were created, and the contemporary context in which they are implemented. The doctrinal and political understanding of the current state of refugee protection will lay the groundwork for a critical engagement with current practices and developing policy and law reform proposals aimed at enhancing refugee protection.

There is no prescribed textbook for the unit. Links to the weekly readings can be found on the ilearn page. The readings for the international law sections are drawn predominantly from James C Hathaway and Michelle Foster, The Law of Refugee Status (Cambridge University Press, 2nd ed, 2014), which is available electronically through the MQ library website.

Unit Schedule

1: The Politics of Refugee Protection

2: Legal and Institutional Frameworks

3: The Definition of a Refugee I

4: The Definition of a Refugee II

5: Exclusion, Cessation and Protection Elsewhere

6: Complementary Protection

7: Climate Displacement

8: Refugee Status Determination Procedures

9: Deterrence: Detention, Temporary Protection and Return

10: Blocking Access to Asylum

11: Cooperation and Responsibility Sharing

12: Resettlement and Safe Pathways to Protection
