Unit description

This unit is designed to provide you with an understanding of the basic cognitive disorders and higher-level delusions that can arise either developmentally or as a result of brain injury. You will learn about the characteristic features of these disorders and delusions, and about how the patterns of symptoms displayed can be accounted for in terms of models of normal cognitive processing. Where relevant, you will be familiarised with theories about the underlying causes of the conditions, and with experimental investigations of the efficacy of particular treatments. Patterns of similarities and differences of conditions will be critically examined. Conditions covered include: dyslexia, specific language impairment (SLI), aphasia, amnesia, agnosia, synaesthesia, autism, auditory hallucination, delusion and schizophrenia. All enrolment queries should be directed to Open Universities Australia (OUA): see www.open.edu.au

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

ULO1: Describe the characteristic features of a range of delusions and cognitive disorders.

ULO2: Explain key concepts and theories about the underlying causes of a range of delusions and cognitive disorders.

ULO3: Analyse the strengths and weaknesses of competing explanations and theories of a range of delusions and cognitive disorders.

ULO4: Critique popular or prejudicial claims about delusions, disorders, and the mind from an informed and evidence-based perspective.

Assessment Tasks

Weighting: 15%

Weekly short online multiple-choice quizzes that cover basic unit content

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Describe the characteristic features of a range of delusions and cognitive disorders.

Online participation

Assessment Type ¹: Participatory task

Indicative Time on Task ²: 20 hours

Due: Weekly

Weighting: 10%

Activity in lecture-embedded online activities

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Describe the characteristic features of a range of delusions and cognitive disorders.
- Explain key concepts and theories about the underlying causes of a range of delusions and cognitive disorders.
- Analyse the strengths and weaknesses of competing explanations and theories of a range of delusions and cognitive disorders.
- Critique popular or prejudicial claims about delusions, disorders, and the mind from an informed and evidence-based perspective.

Mid-semester exam
