Unit description

This unit is an examination of the Australian taxation system from a legal perspective. Students will study a range of topics including taxation of capital gains, deductions, capital allowances, and tax avoidance issues, as well as the administration of the taxation system and the taxation of companies, trusts and partnerships. The unit includes an examination of how the law regulates income distribution through the social security system and the legal availability of welfare benefits. The unit provides a basic knowledge of the taxation system and is a good background for all law students whether or not they intend to practice in the taxation area.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

Delivery and Resources

Delivery

As you will be aware, we continue to deliver units at Macquarie under the requirements of 'special circumstances'. What does this mean for LAWS5053?

Lectures: These will be recorded and uploaded to Echo360 in advance of the scheduled weekly topic in the unit.

Tutorial: There is an option of either face to face or online tutorials. If you are enrolled in an online tutorial class and are unable to attend get in contact with your tutor for arrangements for accessing a recording of the tutorial.

Please note: Recordings of online tutorials are not uploaded to ILearn.

Resources

Prescribed Textbook:

Richard Krever, Antony Ting, Celeste Black, Wes Obst, Rami Hanegbi, Sunita Jogarajan, Kerrie Sadiq,

Principles of Taxation Law 2021, Thomson Reuters.

Available in print and eBook and bundle.

Additional materials: Additional materials will be identified either as applicable for the whole unit or for specific topics as appropriate.

Additional materials will be uploaded through Leganto.

Changes from Previous Offering

This revised unit provides a solid introduction to the fundamentals of the Australian tax system. There will be an emphasis on Income Tax and its assessment under the Income Tax Assessment legislation, as well as the Goods and Services Tax (GST) and Capital Gains Tax (CGT) regimes. A critical approach is emphasised throughout. Students will be encouraged to think beyond the traditional categories and to pursue an approach to taxation law underscored by critical thinking. Topics covered will include:

- A broad overview of the self-assessment system and how tax is administered

- The interaction between various taxes
- Residence and source
- The concept of income and assessable income
- capital gains and their inclusion in assessable income
- allowable deductions including the general deduction rule
- deduction regimes that supplement the general deduction rule
- taxation of capital gains made through partnerships, trusts and corporations
- The basic rules for capital gains (CGT)
- Main residence exemption and small business concessions under the CGT regime
- The basic rules of goods and services tax (GST)
- Adjustments for GST
- GST free supplies and input taxed supplies
- Property issues in relation to GST
- The general anti-avoidance rule
- Challenges to decisions of the Commissioner of taxation.
