Unit description

As a result of increased globalisation, technological change and social transformations, domestic and global health issues and challenges have become increasingly interconnected. This unit examines how domestic and international law serve as important tools in the quest to prevent injury and disease by lowering health risks among populations. Students will learn about the principal domestic and international legal instruments, regulatory strategies, and enforcement approaches that exist to improve health and wellbeing in a variety of critical contemporary health related contexts. Consideration will also be given to the important role other actors, such as intergovernmental organisations, business and civil society, may play in promoting and protecting health.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

ULO1: Identify, evaluate, critique and apply fundamental doctrines, concepts, principles in health law

ULO2: Analyse governance frameworks and their relationship to legal frameworks in health systems

ULO3: Carry out advanced research, synthesis and integration of knowledge to generate appropriate responses to contemporary socio-legal problems in health law

ULO4: Produce an independent research report at an advanced level of written expression in accordance with formal writing conventions

General Assessment Information

The Faculty of Arts Late Submission Policy requires that: "Unless a Special Consideration request has been submitted and approved, (a) a penalty for lateness will apply – two (2) marks out of 100 will be deducted per day for assignments submitted after the due date – and (b) no assignment will be accepted more than seven (7) days (incl. weekends) after the original submission deadline. No late submissions will be accepted for timed assessments – e.g. quizzes, online tests." Applications for a special consideration are made electronically via ask.mq.edu.au and should be accompanied by supporting documentation.

Word limits will be strictly applied and work above the word limit will not be graded. Footnotes and bibliographies are not included in word counts; however, footnotes are primarily to be used for referencing.

Assessments must be submitted in the format prescribed in detailed instructions provided on the unit iLearn page. All assessments in the unit are to be submitted electronically via Turnitin. Plagiarism detection software is used in this unit.

All assessments must be appropriately referenced, applying the Australian Guide to Legal Citation (4th ed).

Further instructions and marking rubrics for each of the assessments in the Unit will be provided on the unit's iLearn page.
