Unit description
Why do we need theoretical concepts to think critically and reflectively about human geography and planning? This unit offers you an advanced introduction to key theoretical paradigms and to the ways in which they have influenced geographical and planning imaginations. A key focus of the unit is the use of theory to develop critical, situated and ethical standpoints that inform academic and professional practice. 'Thinking Space' will help you to develop these skills by learning how to identify your own theoretical perspectives in relation to the perspectives of others. You will work individually and in groups on themes related to the critical study of space and apply theoretical perspectives to the historical and lived conditions experienced by different groups over time.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

ULO1: Identify and discuss the key paradigms and concepts that inform contemporary geographical and planning theory.

ULO2: Develop an understanding of the use of theory in formulating critical perspectives and ethical standpoints in addressing real world issues and in recognising the perspectives and standpoints of others.

ULO3: Apply theoretical perspectives to the historical and lived spatial conditions experienced by different social groups

ULO4: Develop your own theoretical and ethical standpoints and relate these to your professional and/or academic practice.

General Assessment Information

Where can I find out more detailed information about assignments?

Please consult the folder in the GEOP3090 iLearn page labelled 'Assessment'. Here you will find more detailed instructions for each assessment item, marking criteria and rubrics. The assessment folder contains links to useful resources and guides. You are encouraged to post questions about assignments in the General Discussion Forum on the main iLearn page.

Thinking Space Media Project

The 'Thinking Space Media Project' is a mixture of group and individual assessment. There is class-time dedicated to this task so that your group has an opportunity to work together on the assignment. Please note that 50% of the mark for the 'Thinking Space Media Project' is individually assessed. The individual component of the task requires you to submit a 1000-word reflective summary of the research that you have individually selected for the group podcast. You will be required to submit your summary to Turnitin in iLearn by 5pm in Week 13.

The remaining 50% of the media project mark will be based on the quality and presentation of your group podcast. The podcasts will be uploaded to a special forum in iLearn by 9:30am in Week 13.

Thinking Space Reflective Activity

From Week 2, you are required to read the set readings for each topic. The readings can be accessed through Leganto in iLearn. Your reading will inform the completion of three 500-word reflective activity sheets. The activity sheets will be available in the assessment folder in iLearn. Please note that you must complete a minimum of 2 activity sheets to receive a mark for this assessment. The Reflective Activity sheets are due in Turnitin by 5pm on the day of class in weeks 4, 6 and 11.

Handing in your assignments

Unless otherwise specified, you are required to submit your assignments by the time and date provided in this Unit Guide via the Turnitin link provided in iLearn. Please keep an electronic copy of your assignment and a record of your submission for reference. If you are having trouble submitting your assessment to Turnitin, please contact Donna immediately.

Late assignments

Unless a Special Consideration request has been submitted and approved,

(a) a penalty for lateness will apply – ten marks out of 100 credit will be deducted per day for assignments submitted after the due date – and

(b) no assignment will be accepted more than seven days (incl. weekends) after the original submission deadline. No late submissions will be accepted for timed assessments – e.g. quizzes, online tests

Assessment Tasks

Name	Weighting	Hurdle	Due
Thinking Space Reflective Activity	30%	No	See general assessment information
Review Essay	30%	No	Week 8 (April 29, 2022)
Thinking Space Podcast	40%	No	Week 13 (June 2, 2022)

Thinking Space Reflective Activity

Assessment Type ¹: Log book

Indicative Time on Task ²: 15 hours

Due: See general assessment information

Weighting: 30%

Three 500-word reflective activity sheets will be completed between weeks 2-8. The activity task is structured to facilitate a thoughtful record of and reflection on the lecture and reading material. Students are tasked in their reflections to apply key ideas to real-world examples sourced from the media or planning project websites.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Identify and discuss the key paradigms and concepts that inform contemporary geographical and planning theory.
- Develop an understanding of the use of theory in formulating critical perspectives and ethical standpoints in addressing real world issues and in recognising the perspectives and standpoints of others.

- Develop your own theoretical and ethical standpoints and relate these to your professional and/or academic practice.

Review Essay

Assessment Type ¹: Essay

Indicative Time on Task ²: 30 hours

Due: Week 8 (April 29, 2022)

Weighting: 30%

A 1500-word review essay that critically discusses a key theoretical perspective in planning or urban geography. The essay can be focused on a key idea, theory or thinker. The essay will consider how theory informs planning practice or geographical thought through the application of concrete examples.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Identify and discuss the key paradigms and concepts that inform contemporary geographical and planning theory.
- Develop an understanding of the use of theory in formulating critical perspectives and ethical standpoints in addressing real world issues and in recognising the perspectives and standpoints of others.
- Apply theoretical perspectives to the historical and lived spatial conditions experienced by different social groups
- Develop your own theoretical and ethical standpoints and relate these to your professional and/or academic practice.

Thinking Space Podcast

Assessment Type ¹: Media presentation

Indicative Time on Task ²: 40 hours

Due: Week 13 (June 2, 2022)

Weighting: 40%

Students will critically apply concepts from 'Thinking Space' to a contemporary urban issue. The task has an individual and group component. The individual component is worth 50% of the mark and will involve a 1000 word reflective summary of research undertaken for the podcast. The group project will involve the scripting, recording and publication of a 'Thinking Space' podcast.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Identify and discuss the key paradigms and concepts that inform contemporary geographical and planning theory.
- Develop an understanding of the use of theory in formulating critical perspectives and ethical standpoints in addressing real world issues and in recognising the perspectives and standpoints of others.
- Apply theoretical perspectives to the historical and lived spatial conditions experienced by different social groups

- the academic teaching staff in your unit for guidance in understanding or completing this type of assessment
- the Writing Centre for academic skills support.

² Indicative time-on-task is an estimate of the time required for completion of the assessment task and is subject to individual variation

Delivery and Resources

GEOP3090 is an in-person only offering. It is taught in a 3 hour lectorial/workshop format in a collaborative learning classroom. While lectures will be recorded and uploaded onto Echo360 each week, it will not be possible to record the workshops, activities and class discussions. The Lectorial/Workshops are scheduled on Thursdays 10am-1pm in Weeks 1-13. Typically, the workshops will begin with a lecture, followed by group activities and discussion. Some class time has been set aside for consultation and assessment preparation and for group work related to the Thinking Space Media Project.

Class is scheduled to be held in the Central Courtyard in 01CC, 205. On the day of class, please make sure that you check the Macquarie timetable or the GEOP3090 iLearn page for any last minute room changes.

Unit readings can be accessed via Leganto. The Leganto link is located in the top right panel of the GEOP3090 iLearn main page. Please contact Donna if you are having trouble accessing the readings as they are essential to your assignments and to the class discussions.

The GEOP3090 iLearn page contains additional resources in the 'Assessment' folder and under the weekly topic headings. Please make sure that you regularly check the iLearn page and your Macquarie University student email for updates and information regarding this unit.
