Unit description

This unit provides an advanced introduction to the study of international political economy, and to develop students' research, analytical and problem-solving skills. The unit examines the key questions, concepts, findings and controversies in the study of economic globalisation and considers the role of the state and non-state actors in shaping the regional and global integration of political economies.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

ULO1: To convey an understanding of the major debates and contemporary issues raised by the study of International Political Economy.

ULO3: To impart a critical understanding of the diverse impacts of global economic integration, especially on the state's governing powers over the economy through contemporary conceptual approaches and empirical case studies.

ULO2: To deepen knowledge on the rise of new state and non-state global and international power actors brought about globalisation.

ULO4: To promote a macro (big picture) perspective on economic globalisation's impacts, which integrates theory and empirical evidence.

ULO5: To develop a degree of knowledge in the policy dimensions of global economic integration.

Delivery and Resources

COURSE STRUCTURE

This course is taught with 1 two-hour lecture followed by 1 one-hour tutorial each week. Lectures will be recorded and uploaded onto the iLearn website prior to the online and on-campus tutorials on Fridays. See the following link for full details on lecture and tutorials locations and times: <https://timetables.mq.edu.au/2022/>.

On-campus students are expected to listen all lectures and actively participate in all on-campus tutorials or via an online tutorial. External students are expected to listen to all lectures and actively participate in the online discussion forums. As an advanced undergraduate unit, student participation is paramount. Students are therefore expected to come to tutorials or participate in online discussion forums having done the reading and considered discussion topics.

Online Resources

You can log on to the iLearn and iTeach e-learning system. The unit outline, teaching aids, essential readings, and guidelines for the Briefing Paper, Research Essay will be posted on the unit websites. Students are responsible for checking the unit website regularly for relevant announcements, scheduled changes, and other information.
