Unit description

This unit examines the fundamentals of the Australian taxation system. A critical approach is emphasised throughout. Students will be encouraged to think beyond the traditional categories and to pursue an approach to taxation law underscored by critical thinking. The wider societal and technological context of the Australian taxation system will form part of the unit's focus. Topics covered include:

- A broad overview of the self-assessment system and how tax is administered;
- The interaction between various taxes;
- Residence and source;
- The concept of income and assessable income;
- Capital gains and their inclusion in assessable income;
- Allowable deductions including the general deduction rule and deduction regimes that supplement the general deduction rule;
- Taxation of capital gains made through partnerships, trusts and corporations, the basic rules for capital gains tax (CGT), main residence exemption and small business concessions under the CGT regime;
- The basic rules of goods and services tax (GST) including adjustments for GST, GST free supplies, input taxed supplies and property issues in relation to GST; and
- Anti-avoidance.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

ULO1: Explain and analyse the fundamental values and principles that relate to taxation in Australia in their societal and technological context.

ULO2: Identify tax law issues and be able to apply the Income Tax, GST, tax administration regimes and the provisions dealing with tax avoidance for the purposes of giving professional advice.

ULO3: Develop a suitable set of tax management and planning strategies for individuals and business at various stages.

ULO4: Analyse the way that taxation laws impact upon Australian individuals and businesses from the perspective of revenue raising and distribution, taxation accountability and tax administration in tackling current taxation challenges in modern Australia.

General Assessment Information

Unless a Special Consideration request has been submitted and approved, (a) a penalty for lateness will apply – 10 marks out of 100 credit will be deducted per day for assignments submitted after the due date – and (b) no assignment will be accepted seven days (incl. weekends) after the original submission deadline. No late submissions will be accepted for timed assessments - e.g. quizzes, online tests.

All assessments are submitted electronically. Turnitin plagiarism detection software is used to check all written assessments.

Students should carefully check that they submit the correct file for an assessment as no re-submissions will be accepted after the due date and time, including instances where students upload an incorrect file in error.

Word limits are strictly applied. Work above the word limit will not be marked. Footnotes are to be used only for referencing. Referencing must conform to the requirements set out in the Australian Guide to Legal Citation.

- the academic teaching staff in your unit for guidance in understanding or completing this type of assessment
- the Writing Centre for academic skills support.

² Indicative time-on-task is an estimate of the time required for completion of the assessment task and is subject to individual variation

Delivery and Resources

Teaching

In this Unit, you will have several lecturers and tutors. For most weeks, the tutorial questions will be based on the prior week's lectures. For most weeks, the academic running the tutorial will be the academic who delivered the relevant lecture in the preceding week. The first tutorial will be introductory and no preparation will be required. Each Lecturer has expertise in the areas they are lecturing and tutoring. All student queries should be directed to the Unit Convenor. Where appropriate, queries may be forwarded by the convenor to a different lecturer/tutor.

Lectures

Lectures will be pre-recorded and available on ECHO 360

Tutorials

Students will prepare for every week's tutorial but students will only be required to submit in one week of tutorials and may work in groups of up to 3 students. For 20% class participation assessment mark; 15% will be based on participation/contribution on your selected presentation week and 5% will be based on contribution each week. Students are encouraged to use technology for their assessable presentation and presentations may be filmed in advance and may use animation. The only limitation on your presentation is that it must contain sufficient correct legal content to answer the question, must be informative for the class and must not exceed 10 minutes per student presenting.

Resources

Prescribed text for this Unit is:

Sadiq et al, Principles of Taxation Law 2022 (Thomson Reuters, 2022).

Where necessary, additional resources will be provided through Leganto.

Note regarding ATO Tax Rulings

These are not law (like legislation and cases are) but are easy-to-read summaries of the legislation and cases with the ATO's interpretation of these.

There are also usually some small case studies at the end which are useful in helping to understand the topic.

Policies and Procedures
