Unit description

Being curious means constantly asking questions. Asking the right questions is a fundamental skill for problem solving. This unit integrates the knowledge developed throughout the course by applying a methodological rigour to how we assess data. There is no shortage of data - the immediacy of data availability through social and media platforms means unprecedented access to data. The increasing sophistication of automation and machine learning offers consumers a curated view which may not necessarily be accurate. How do we know what is real? Is the information credible? This unit develops problem solving skills by invoking the curious mindset. Students will demonstrate their mastery of triangulation by considering the validity and reliability of data and learn the importance of asking the right questions.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

ULO1: Critically evaluate qualitative and quantitative research tools and processes.

ULO2: Balance pragmatic concerns with rigour when deciding which qualitative and or quantitative methods to use relative to the problem.

ULO3: Master the science and art of asking questions.

General Assessment Information

Late Assessment Submission Penalty (written assessments)

Unless a Special Consideration request has been submitted and approved, a 5% penalty (of the total possible mark) will be applied each day a written assessment is not submitted, up until the 7th day (including weekends). After the 7th day, a grade of '0' will be awarded even if the assessment is submitted. Submission time for all written assessments is set at 11.55 pm. A 1-hour grace period is provided to students who experience a technical concern.

For any late submissions of time-sensitive tasks, such as scheduled tests/exams, performance assessments/presentations, and/or scheduled practical assessments/labs, students need to submit an application for Special Consideration.

Assessment Tasks

Name	Weighting	Hurdle	Due
Discussion Guide	55%	No	Week 3
Survey	45%	No	Week 6

Discussion Guide

Assessment Type ¹: Project

Indicative Time on Task ²: 12 hours

Due: Week 3

Weighting: 55%

Length: Team: Discussion guide including a 500-word 'testing and iteration' group report;
Individual: 750-1000-word report including literature review and critical reflection.

Format: Team: Discussion guide (15%); Individual: Literature review and critical reflection (40%).

Task: In this assignment, you will (i) develop, test, and iterate a discussion guide in your project team; (ii) individually review relevant literature of subject matters and research methodologies, and perform a critical reflection on the development, design, testing, and iteration process, including key learnings and insights.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Critically evaluate qualitative and quantitative research tools and processes.
- Balance pragmatic concerns with rigour when deciding which qualitative and or quantitative methods to use relative to the problem.
- Master the science and art of asking questions.

Survey

Assessment Type ¹: Project

Indicative Time on Task ²: 12 hours

Due: Week 6

Weighting: 45%

Length: Team: URL and 2-4 pages of a survey instrument including a 500-word 'testing and iteration' report; Individual: a 500-750-word report on research methodologies and critical reflection.

Format: Team: Online survey design (15%); Individual: Review of research methodologies and critical reflection (30%).

Task: In this assignment, your project team will design, test, and iterate an online survey based on the insights gained from Assignment 1 and your literature review, using an online survey tool of your choice. Each team member will complete a 500-750-word review of research methodologies and critical reflection.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Critically evaluate qualitative and quantitative research tools and processes.
- Balance pragmatic concerns with rigour when deciding which qualitative and or quantitative methods to use relative to the problem.
- Master the science and art of asking questions.

- the academic teaching staff in your unit for guidance in understanding or completing this type of assessment
- the Writing Centre for academic skills support.

² Indicative time-on-task is an estimate of the time required for completion of the assessment task and is subject to individual variation

Delivery and Resources

For details please refer to your online unit on the Coursera platform.

Unit Schedule

For details please refer to your online unit on the Coursera platform.

Live Events will take place via Zoom each week starting in Week 1 and ending in Week 6. The links to the events are available via Live Events in the Coursera unit.

You will need to use your Macquarie University student Zoom account to access the Live Events.

Attending the Live Event each week is an opportunity to engage with the unit content, your Unit Convenor, and classmates. Students are strongly advised to attend the Live Events. Recordings of the Live Events will be made available shortly after the event and can be accessed via the Coursera unit content.
