Unit description
Businesses and organisations everywhere are facing challenges and finding opportunities brought about by a globalised business environment and an increasingly diverse workforce. It is imperative that business managers develop a high level of cultural intelligence to effectively manage diverse workforce and interact with stakeholders across cultures. Learning how to be a culturally intelligent manager is a key future-focused capability required of every leader. This unit develops future business leaders' cultural intelligence through a series of structured learning activities with real world case studies and assessments. Particular focus is placed on the skills and knowledge that equip business leaders to make sense of a wide variety of attitudes, values, norms, beliefs and perceptions from individuals with different cultural backgrounds and the cultural sensitivity that business leaders need to acquire to effectively manage self and others in a globalised business environment.
