Unit description

In this unit, you will explore how meaning is constructed in intercultural communication contexts. Utilising key concepts in pragmatics and intercultural communication, you will have the opportunity to investigate three main challenges in intercultural communication: (1) the linguistic challenges of language learning, (2) the discursive challenges of stereotyping, and (3) the social challenges of inclusion and justice. You will engage with a wide variety of intercultural communication case studies across domains and organizations.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

ULO1: Identify, describe, and explain key phenomena in pragmatics and intercultural communication.

ULO2: Identify, describe, and evaluate key concepts and theories related to pragmatics and intercultural communication.

ULO3: Identify, describe, and explain the social consequences of (un)successful meaning making in intercultural communication across different communities and contexts.

ULO4: Communicate advanced knowledge and understanding of socially relevant aspects of the interplay between pragmatics and intercultural communication to diverse audiences.

General Assessment Information

Requesting an extension to assignment due date

Assignments are due at regular intervals throughout the semester and it is therefore not possible to receive extensions. Missing a small number of assignments is unlikely to jeopardize your successful completion of the unit. If you find you cannot keep up with the assessment tasks, due to special circumstances, please consult your unit convenor. Replacement tasks can be given in special circumstances, by completing a Special Consideration request. For more information on Special Consideration, see <https://students.mq.edu.au/study/my-study-program/special-consideration>

Late submission of assignments

As assignments are due at regular intervals throughout the semester, late submission is not possible.
