Unit description
This unit will provide you with an understanding of the features of academic discourse, focusing on the genres used by different disciplinary communities, and the way these communities use the lexico-grammatical resources of academic English to achieve their purposes. We examine the identities projected by academics in their writing, and the ways in which student writers develop their understanding of and ability to project appropriate identities. This understanding provides the basis for consideration of approaches to needs analysis, course and materials development and assessment. The challenges typically faced by both native and non-native speakers of English will be explored.

Important Academic Dates
Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates

Learning Outcomes
On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

ULO1: Critically discuss the nature and features of academic discourse
ULO2: Demonstrate an understanding of and ability to use a range of academic genres
ULO3: Explain key issues related to teaching language for academic purposes to both first language and second language speakers
ULO4: Critically evaluate academic language course design and select appropriate learning materials drawing on principles of needs analysis
ULO5: Evaluate the appropriateness of academic language teaching materials and assessment tasks for use with specific student cohorts
