Unit description
This unit is concerned with the study of human communication from a social-semiotic (meaning-making in interaction) perspective. It includes the study of the philosophical and practical differences between different schools of genre in applied linguistics; context-related patterns of communication in language and other semiotic systems (such as gesture, image, and layout); and the ways in which such patterns occur across semiotic systems and are systematically related. Multimodal communication in sites of educational practice is explored and analysed from a coherent theoretical perspective.

Important Academic Dates
Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates

Learning Outcomes
On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:
ULO1: Explain the concept of multimodality and how it can be understood in relation to established approaches to genre and discourse in Applied Linguistics.

ULO2: Explain the contribution of spatial meanings in classrooms to learning and teaching through analysing a specific physical classroom

ULO3: Apply knowledge of social semiotic theory through analysis of patterns of meaning across different semiotic systems (e.g. language, image, layout) in specific communicative contexts

ULO4: Communicate to a professional audience key concepts related to genre, discourse and multimodality using audiovisual presentation technology

General Assessment Information

All assessment tasks must be submitted in order to be eligible to pass this unit.

Requesting an extension to assignment due date

On occasion, you may be in a situation when you aren't able to submit an assessment task on time. Extensions are only given in special circumstances, by completing a Special Consideration request. For more information on Special Consideration, see https://students.mq.edu.au/study/my-study-program/special-consideration

Late submission of assignments

If you haven't been approved for an extension and you submit your assessment task late, penalties are applied. You should consult your unit convenor if you are in this position. Late submissions will receive a 5% per day penalty. If you submit the assessment task 10 days or more beyond the due date, without an approved extension, you will be awarded a maximum of 50% of the overall assessment marks. Weekends and public holidays are included.

Multimodality and its relation to genre and discourse

Assessment Type 1: Essay
Indicative Time on Task 2: 15 hours
Critically evaluate theories of genre and discourse and explain the relation between your working definitions of these concepts and a social semiotic theory of multimodality.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Explain the concept of multimodality and how it can be understood in relation to established approaches to genre and discourse in Applied Linguistics.
- Apply knowledge of social semiotic theory through analysis of patterns of meaning across different semiotic systems (e.g. language, image, layout) in specific communicative contexts
- Communicate to a professional audience key concepts related to genre, discourse and multimodality using audiovisual presentation technology

Classroom space and language teaching and learning

Assessment Type 1: Media presentation
Indicative Time on Task 2: 30 hours
Due: End of mid-semester recess
Weighting: 40%

Prepare an audio-visual presentation that could be given at an English language teachers' professional development session. Outline the context of a physical teaching and learning space that you are interested in. Describe the physical space and, considering its multimodality, explain how space is used in the teaching and learning activity that takes place. Explain the affordances and constraints on teaching and learning of the physical space.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Explain the contribution of spatial meanings in classrooms to learning and teaching through analysing a specific physical classroom
- Apply knowledge of social semiotic theory through analysis of patterns of meaning across different semiotic systems (e.g. language, image, layout) in specific communicative contexts
- Communicate to a professional audience key concepts related to genre, discourse and multimodality using audiovisual presentation technology multimodality using audiovisual presentation technology

Multimodal representation of a physical teaching space

Assessment Type 1: Media presentation
Indicative Time on Task 2: 40 hours
Due: Week 13
Weighting: 40%

Prepare an audio-visual presentation that could be given at an Applied Linguistics/TESOL conference. A) Design a one page multimodal representation of your ideal teaching and learning space, applying the multimodal grammatical concepts from the second half of this unit.

B) Explain the meaning choices in your one page visual in terms of the experiential, interpersonal and textual image and language grammar.

On successful completion you will be able to:

• Explain the concept of multimodality and how it can be understood in relation to established approaches to genre and discourse in Applied Linguistics.
• Explain the contribution of spatial meanings in classrooms to learning and teaching through analysing a specific physical classroom
• Apply knowledge of social semiotic theory through analysis of patterns of meaning across different semiotic systems (e.g. language, image, layout) in specific communicative contexts
• Communicate to a professional audience key concepts related to genre, discourse and multimodality using audiovisual presentation technology

1 If you need help with your assignment, please contact:

• the academic teaching staff in your unit for guidance in understanding or completing this type of assessment
• the Writing Centre for academic skills support.

2 Indicative time-on-task is an estimate of the time required for completion of the assessment task and is subject to individual variation

Delivery and Resources

The unit is delivered face-to-face for internal students, with one weekly seminar. See timetable s.mq.edu.au for more information. All resources are online. For external students, seminars are recorded and there are weekly learning tasks including mini-lectures, learning activities, and online forum discussions to be completed.

Inclusion and Diversity

Social inclusion at Macquarie University is about giving everyone who has the potential to benefit from higher education the opportunity to study at university, participate in campus life and flourish in their chosen field. The University has made significant moves to promote an equitable, diverse and exciting campus community for the benefit of staff and students. It is your responsibility to contribute towards the development of an inclusive culture and practice in the areas of learning and teaching, research, and service orientation and delivery. As a member of the Macquarie University community, you must not discriminate against or harass others based on their sex, gender, race, marital status, carers' responsibilities, disability, sexual orientation, age, political conviction or religious belief. All staff and students are expected to display appropriate behaviour that is conducive to a healthy learning environment for everyone.

Professionalism

In the Faculty of Medicine, Health and Human Sciences, professionalism is a key capability embedded in all our courses.

As part of developing professionalism, students are expected to attend all small group interactive sessions. Some learning activities are recorded (e.g., face-to-face seminars), however you are encouraged to avoid relying upon such material as they do not recreate the whole learning experience and technical issues can and do occur. As an adult learner, we respect your decision to choose how you engage with your learning, but we would remind you that the learning opportunities we create for you have been done so to enable your success, and that by not engaging you may impact your ability to successfully complete this unit. We equally expect that you show respect for the academic staff who have worked hard to develop meaningful activities and prioritise your learning by communicating with them in advance if you are unable to attend a small group interactive session.

Another dimension of professionalism is having respect for your peers. It is the right of every student to learn in an environment that is free of disruption and distraction. Please arrive to all learning activities on time, and if you are unavoidably detained, please join activity as quietly as possible to minimise disruption. Phones and other electronic devices that produce noise and other distractions must be turned off prior to entering class. Where your own device (e.g., laptop) is being used for class-related activities, you are asked to close down all other applications to avoid distraction to you and others. Please treat your fellow students with the utmost respect. If you are uncomfortable participating in any specific activity, please let the relevant academic know.
