Unit description

This unit considers the link between banking and financial crime at the international and domestic levels. The unit will examine the banking and financial institutions' regulatory framework, payment systems, history, sources and development of specific crimes in the international and domestic arena, theories of compliance, and criminal enforcement. Global norms and their interaction with domestic legislatures, government authorities, and regulatory reforms in selected jurisdictions will be investigated at a broad level. Students will then more specifically examine singular criminal regimes. From a practical perspective, examining specific criminal acts and the global regimes will inform students understanding of the prevention and resolution of international conflict, and the promotion of criminal justice in such areas as human trafficking, slavery, 'blood diamonds', money laundering, terrorist financing and the financing of proliferation of weapons of mass destruction.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

ULO1: Describe and analyse the history of formal and informal sources of specific crimes in the international and domestic arena, the development of soft and hard norms, and traditional theories of norm compliance.

ULO2: Explain binding and non-binding norms (including positive and negative aspects) and their interaction with national legislative and regulatory reforms in selected jurisdictions.

ULO3: Explain and critique the departures from regular international lawmaking processes, and emerging forms of international governance.

ULO4: Explain the substantive hard and soft law norms under a specific international regime which prevent international conflict and promote criminal justice.

ULO5: Critically analyse the motives for compliance with the international criminal regime in different jurisdictions, including Australia.

General Assessment Information

Late Assessment Submission Penalty

Unless a Special Consideration request has been submitted and approved, a 5% penalty (of the total possible mark) will be applied each day a written assessment is not submitted, up until the 7th day (including weekends). After the 7th day, a mark of '0' (zero) will be awarded even if the assessment is submitted. Submission time for all written assessments is set at 11.55 pm. A 1-hour grace period is provided to students who experience a technical issue.

This late penalty will apply to non-timed sensitive assessments (incl essays, reports, posters, portfolios, journals, recordings, etc). Late submission of time-sensitive tasks (such as tests/exams, performance assessments/presentations, scheduled practical assessments/labs, etc) will only be addressed by the unit convenor in a Special consideration application. Special Consideration outcome may result in a new question or topic.
