Unit description

International Commercial Law examines contract law as it applies in an international context, addressing, in particular; the international sale of goods; Incoterms, contracts of sale under the Vienna Sales Convention; contracts for carriage of goods by sea, air and land; and bills of exchange, marine insurance and letters of credit in international trade. This unit incorporates analyses of different legal systems, an introduction to conflicts of law as well as political contexts underpinning the operation of this body of law. International commercial arbitration is highlighted as the key mode of dispute settlement for international contractual disputes.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

ULO1: Demonstrate comprehension of the regulatory framework and standards that govern International Sales of Goods.

ULO2: Understand the legal aspects of international commercial transactions, and identify legal issues, problems and risk factors that a business entity may encounter in operating cross-border transactions.

ULO3: Demonstrate a sophisticated knowledge and understanding of relevant laws and conventions that influence international commercial transactions by sea and air

ULO4: Explain the importance of risk in international commercial transactions and demonstrate a working knowledge of international insurance process and procedures.

ULO5: Analyse hypothetical international legal problem scenarios via constructing and defending arguments in a well-structured, reasoned, coherent and logical manner.

ULO6: Demonstrate the ability to independently research contentious and timely issues in international commercial law.

General Assessment Information

Both internal & external students: Attendance and participation will be recorded at every tutorial and will affect participation grades. Both internal and external students must book the 2 tutorial sessions when they will be 'On Call' during the tutorials as soon as the semester commences. This can be done through contacting the Convenor by messaging via iLearn. Please note that availability of spots is limited so trying to book the last sessions in the semester often causes difficulties when it transpires that the student is unexpectedly unable to attend the nominated session. It is your responsibility to book these sessions, and only limited spots are available for each topic. It is therefore recommended that you book for as early as possible in the semester. You must nominate two tutorial topics across the semester. Your 'On Call' participation will be graded and will form the basis for your participation mark. Your consistency in attending and actively participating throughout the semester will be taken into account also, and your 'On Call' participation mark will be adjusted to reflect this.

Your 'On Call' tutorial participation is your opportunity to shine! You will be given a chance to address the tutorial questions first, before other students who are not on call are invited. As the 'On Call' tutorials account for much of your participation mark, you should make the most of the chance to prepare for those sessions.

Do you want to ensure that you receive recognition for your preparation by taking on the extra challenge of participating in a simulated arbitration? The tutorial topic on dispute resolution offers you a special opportunity to be extra prepared. We run a practice strategy session in the prior week, and you can consult with the Convenor about your preparation. Most students who take on the simulated moot achieve much higher scores than the average on call, and their extra effort is rewarded in that they only need do the one topic rather than two. You need not have mooted before, and I guarantee that, although challenging, you will find the experience rewarding. Please indicate early if you would like to do the moot session.

Late Penalty (applicable to Assignment only)

Late Assessment Submission Penalty

Unless a Special Consideration request has been submitted and approved, a 5% penalty (of the total possible mark) will be applied each day a written assessment is not submitted, up until the 7th day (including weekends). After the 7th day, a mark of, 0 (zero) will be awarded even if the assessment is submitted. Submission time for all written assessments is set at 11.55pm. A 1-hour grace period is provided to students who experience a technical issue.

This late penalty will apply to non-timed sensitive assessment (incl essays, reports, posters, portfolios, journals, recordings etc). Late submission of time sensitive tasks (such as tests/exams, performance assessments/presentations, scheduled practical assessments/labs etc) will only be addressed by the unit convenor in a Special consideration application. Special Consideration outcome may result in a new question or topic.
