Unit description

What are human rights? How have they evolved and what is the political and cultural investment in them? How and why does a concept defined by hope and aspiration, promising human rights and freedoms, remain elusive and problematic in theory and practice? We will explore this history through social movements and legal systems, as well as politics, philosophy and rights discourses. We consider the personal and collective stories of human rights and explore key moments in their development from Magna Carta to Indigenous self-determination and climate change. The unit deepens and complicates understandings of modernity developed in MHIS1001 and MHIS1002. In addition, it provides crucial historical background, context and terminology for students interested in careers in international law, foreign aid, global politics and humanitarian organisations.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

ULO1: Understand changing ideas of human rights over time and place.

ULO2: Understand critiques of human rights from feminist and postcolonial perspectives.

ULO3: Understand the appropriate legal and political structures within which human rights are articulated.

ULO4: Demonstrate advanced critical writing skills in making sustained and evidence-based arguments about the past.

General Assessment Information

Late Penalties

A late penalty will apply for the research scoping task and the individual thesis component of the assessments. What does this mean?

- A penalty of 5% of the total possible mark (of the task) will be applied each day a written assessment is not submitted, until the 7th day. The 7 days includes weekends.
- After the 7th day, a grade of '0' (zero) will be awarded even if the student submits the assessment. This is to allow for the release of assessment feedback to the remaining class.
- Submission time for written assessments is set at 11.59pm.
- 1 hour grace period is provided to students who have technical concerns.

Where a student has a special consideration application for an extension approved, then the rules are applied to the new approved due date for that student.

Example

An assessment task is submitted one day late. The task is marked out of 100. The 5% penalty equals 5 marks that will be deducted.

If the above assessment task is worth 40% of the unit then the 5% penalty equates to a 2% deduction.

If the above assessment task is worth 20% of the unit then the 5% penalty equates to a 1% deduction.

PLEASE NOTE:

The above policy does not mean that we don't understand that you are human and unforeseen things can hamper progress, etc. The main thing that the convenor encourages is that you communicate your issues in advance so as to avoid this penalty. If we don't know about your issues/concerns we can't do anything about them. If we know we can assess whether an extension can be given.

Assessment Tasks

Name	Weighting	Hurdle	Due
Research Essay	50%	No	2nd June 2023
Weekly quizzes	20%	No	From Tuesday weekly from week 3
Article analysis	30%	No	6th April 2023

Research Essay

Assessment Type ¹: Essay

Indicative Time on Task ²: 44 hours

Due: 2nd June 2023

Weighting: 50%

Students are expected to develop their own research essay question in consultation with teachers. Essays should include reference to at least four primary sources and ten secondary sources. The 'further reading' lists in the unit guide will be the best place to start research. The point of this task is to hone your research skills; hone your ability to make a sustained argument with evidence; and hone your ability to write persuasively. Refer to the history essay-writing guide on iLearn for information about argumentation and form. (3000 words).

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Understand changing ideas of human rights over time and place.
- Understand critiques of human rights from feminist and postcolonial perspectives.
- Understand the appropriate legal and political structures within which human rights are articulated.
- Demonstrate advanced critical writing skills in making sustained and evidence-based arguments about the past.

Weekly quizzes

Assessment Type ¹: Quiz/Test

Indicative Time on Task ²: 1 hours

Due: From Tuesday weekly from week 3

Weighting: 20%

Each week students will be given an online quiz, based on the lecture and the readings. This task usually ensures adequate student preparation, kicks off good tute discussions, and enables us to identify any writing issues.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Understand changing ideas of human rights over time and place.
- Understand critiques of human rights from feminist and postcolonial perspectives.
- Understand the appropriate legal and political structures within which human rights are articulated.
- Demonstrate advanced critical writing skills in making sustained and evidence-based arguments about the past.

Article analysis

Assessment Type ¹: Essay

Indicative Time on Task ²: 30 hours

Due: 6th April 2023

Weighting: 30%

Students will locate a recent article (last 12 months) in the media about human rights somewhere in the world. They are then asked to offer a close readings of the article. They will need to identify and discuss the larger human-rights context and ideology behind the story. This assessment task helps students note their development in learning about human rights and prepare for the larger research essays to come in terms of critical analysis and writing. (1500 words).

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Understand changing ideas of human rights over time and place.
- Understand critiques of human rights from feminist and postcolonial perspectives.
- Understand the appropriate legal and political structures within which human rights are articulated.
- Demonstrate advanced critical writing skills in making sustained and evidence-based arguments about the past.

- the academic teaching staff in your unit for guidance in understanding or completing this type of assessment

- the Writing Centre for academic skills support.

² Indicative time-on-task is an estimate of the time required for completion of the assessment task and is subject to individual variation

Delivery and Resources

Lectures for this unit will be pre-recorded and available as zoom recordings in each weekly tab.

All lectures will have accompanying powerpoint slides that will also be uploaded in each weekly tab.

There are also face-to-face tutorials of 1.5 hours duration. These start from week 1.

Please ensure you attend a class in week 1. The class times are:

WHEN: Wednesday: 12 - 1.30 pm and 1.30 - 3 pm.

WHERE: Both are located at 25 Wally's Walk, room A211.

External Students: All content and assessment requirements are the same for students enrolled in external mode. In addition, you are required to login in to the online discussion forum for weekly discussions.
