Unit description
This unit will explore various theoretical and practical issues raised by a single important recent theme in philosophy, such as the nature of the self or the impacts of technology. The unit will explore this theme from a variety of perspectives by looking at the relevant metaphysical and epistemological, ethical and moral, and political and social issues it raises. The unit’s topics and themes may differ from year to year but will not replicate those covered in Research Topics in Philosophy I. Students will be exposed to important philosophical debates so that they are able to begin to pursue their own research projects.

Important Academic Dates
Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates

Learning Outcomes
On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

ULO1: understand issues discussed in the contemporary philosophical literature
ULO3: evaluate philosophical arguments
ULO2: analyse philosophical arguments
ULO4: communicate clearly your own perspective on the philosophical issues examined in this unit

General Assessment Information

OVERVIEW

Active Participation in discussion (20% – continuous)

The participation mark will be made up of three elements:

1. Contribution to class and forum discussions
2. Presentation of four papers or chapters in class across the semester (2 papers per section)
3. Consolidation after each seminar: post one short reflection, observation, or question after the seminar.

See Task description and rubric below for more information.

Essay plan (30%)

Due: 11:55pm Sunday 8 October 2023 (end of week 9) OR 11:55pm Sunday 22 October (end of week 11) for students writing on the second component of the Unit.

(Note: due dates and return dates are set in Turnitin for the first submission date; no penalty will be applied for later submission of papers on the second component of the unit)

See Task description and rubric below for more information.

Delivery and Resources
This unit will run online, Thursdays 2-4pm (weeks 1-12 inclusive). If students are enrolled in Online Flexible mode and are unable to attend seminars, alternative arrangements will be made (please contact the Convenors if this is required).

There will also be an Online Forum (participation in which will count towards the Participation mark).

Required readings: Required readings are available for download from the library via Leganto. All readings will need to be read before the seminar (you can also post comments on the readings in the relevant forum prior to the seminar). Please also feel free to suggest additional readings that you come across.
