Unit description

In this unit, students analyse how businesses create and protect stakeholder value with a focus on risk management, data and technology. Students evaluate and respond to the benefits, risks and challenges organisations face arising from existing and emerging technologies, process automation and the use and application of data. Students will develop skills and knowledge in areas of technical practice including identifying, analysing and managing risk, computational thinking, analysis and reporting of data and emerging technologies. In real world case study based activities and associated assessments, students will apply ethical considerations to risk management and technology and develop skills to communicate technical data to a variety of audiences.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

ULO1: Recommend risk management strategies to address financial and non-financial risks affecting an organisation.

ULO2: Evaluate and communicate the results of data analysis, presented in a range of formats, to provide relevant information for decision making.

ULO3: Identify and evaluate existing and emerging technology solutions and contribute to an IT strategy to meet business objectives and strategy.

ULO4: Apply the principles of computational thinking to generate solutions to authentic business problems.
