Unit description
This unit addresses comprehensive and practical considerations of qualitative research design, covering a range of qualitative research methodologies and analytical tools that are based on the main research philosophies underpinning qualitative research in business and organisation research. The topics include advanced research approaches and methods such as ethnography, discourse analysis, and critical approaches. It helps students develop advanced research skills that are critical to knowledge generation in business research and problem solving.

Important Academic Dates
Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates

Learning Outcomes
On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

ULO1: Explain the relative advantages and disadvantages of a diverse range of qualitative research methods used in management research in developing a research design
ULO2: Conduct qualitative research using a sound understanding of different coding and interpretation strategies that are consistent with their respective research question, method, and research philosophy
ULO3: Develop a theoretical research contribution by relating findings from qualitative data analysis to a literature review

ULO4: Analyze textual data in ways that are consistent with different research philosophies that can underpin qualitative research

General Assessment Information

Late Assessment Submission Penalty (written assessments):

Unless a Special Consideration request has been submitted and approved, a 5% penalty (of the total possible mark) will be applied each day a written assessment is not submitted, up until the 7th day (including weekends). After the 7th day, a grade of ‘0’ will be awarded even if the assessment is submitted.

Submission time for all written assessments is set at 11.55 PM. A 1-hour grace period is provided to students who experience a technical concern.

For any late submissions of time-sensitive tasks, such as scheduled tests/exams, performance assessments/presentations, and/or scheduled practical assessments/labs, students need to submit an application for Special Consideration.

Report

Assessment Type: Report

Indicative Time on Task: 33.3 hours

Due: 26/09/2023

Weighting: 30%

This is a hurdle assessment task (see assessment policy for more information on hurdle assessment tasks)

Select three recent (within the last 5 years) empirical research papers from three top academic journals that have used the same particular research method, and write a 3,000 word report that critically analyzes and compares the three papers in terms of:

1) The way they position the research question in relation to existing literature

2) The way they justify their research methods

3) The extent to which, and ways in which, their main theoretical contributions is supported by, and connected to, the findings
On successful completion you will be able to:

- Explain the relative advantages and disadvantages of a diverse range of qualitative research methods used in management research in developing a research design
- Conduct qualitative research using a sound understanding of different coding and interpretation strategies that are consistent with their respective research question, method, and research philosophy
- Develop a theoretical research contribution by relating findings from qualitative data analysis to a literature review
- Analyze textual data in ways that are consistent with different research philosophies that can underpin qualitative research

Essay

Assessment Type 1: Essay
Indicative Time on Task 2: 33.3 hours
Due: 14/11/2023
Weighting: 30%
This is a hurdle assessment task (see assessment policy for more information on hurdle assessment tasks)

Select any text (e.g. report; interview transcript; series of news or opinion articles on a particular topic) and write a 3,000 word research report that presents the findings of three different analyses that are each based a different research philosophy: (neo-)positivist, interpretive, and critical. Justify the coding and interpretation techniques you used for each analysis in relation to your research question, making use of the relevant literature on qualitative research methods. Support your main findings using data fragments and/or summary tables.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Explain the relative advantages and disadvantages of a diverse range of qualitative research methods used in management research in developing a research design
- Conduct qualitative research using a sound understanding of different coding and interpretation strategies that are consistent with their respective research question, method, and research philosophy
- Develop a theoretical research contribution by relating findings from qualitative data analysis to a literature review
- Analyze textual data in ways that are consistent with different research philosophies that can underpin qualitative research

Weekly Review

Assessment Type 1: Reflective Writing
Indicative Time on Task: 44.4 hours
Due: Weekly (minimum of 5 from weeks 1-8)
Weighting: 40%

This is a hurdle assessment task (see assessment policy for more information on hurdle assessment tasks)

For each of the sessions from weeks 2 -12 of the course, write a 500-1,000 review that:

1) Summarizes what you believe to be the most important learnings from the lecture and readings in each week

2) Critically discuss how the materials covered could relate to your own research project e.g. how might you use some of the points discussed to improve, critique, and/or justify your research project?

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Explain the relative advantages and disadvantages of a diverse range of qualitative research methods used in management research in developing a research design
- Conduct qualitative research using a sound understanding of different coding and interpretation strategies that are consistent with their respective research question, method, and research philosophy
- Develop a theoretical research contribution by relating findings from qualitative data analysis to a literature review
- Analyze textual data in ways that are consistent with different research philosophies that can underpin qualitative research

1 If you need help with your assignment, please contact:

- the academic teaching staff in your unit for guidance in understanding or completing this type of assessment
- the Writing Centre for academic skills support.

2 Indicative time-on-task is an estimate of the time required for completion of the assessment task and is subject to individual variation

Delivery and Resources
The unit will be taught face to face in class.
