Unit description
This unit provides a deep dive into the various factors that affect how firms and economies create different types of jobs and remunerate workers. It addresses current issues such as why wages levels vary between jobs, training and the returns to skills, discrimination and income inequality using examples drawn from Australia and abroad. The unit also covers how artificial intelligence and other technologies have and will likely affect labour market wage and employment outcomes over time. Students have the opportunity to debate approaches to these issues within a highly interactive setting.

Important Academic Dates
Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates

Learning Outcomes
On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

UL01: Demonstrate a solid understanding of labour market theory.

UL02: Recognise how labour market theory aids decision-making by individuals, business and government.

UL03: Communicate effectively within a team on labour market, technology and inequality issues.

UL04: Identify key concepts and causes of inequality and the consequent trade-offs in devising policy interventions.

1 If you need help with your assignment, please contact:

- the academic teaching staff in your unit for guidance in understanding or completing this type of assessment
- the Writing Centre for academic skills support.

2 Indicative time-on-task is an estimate of the time required for completion of the assessment task and is subject to individual variation

Delivery and Resources

The delivery of this unit is fully in-person (face-to-face) at the North Ryde campus; the unit is not available in an online delivery mode. Students attend for three hours (Mondays, 9am-noon); the time is divided between a one-hour face-to-face tutorial followed immediately by a two-hour face-to-face lecture, both of which are highly interactive. There is no tutorial or lecture on Monday 1 April (Easter Monday).

The textbook is Kaufman and Hotchkiss (2006, 7th Ed), The Economics of Labor Markets, and is available to students through Leganto (accessed via the iLearn site for this unit). There is no need to purchase a textbook.

Note that the exam for this unit will be on-campus during the Exam Week and is on campus.

Late Assessment Submission Penalty (written assessments)

Unless a Special Consideration request has been submitted and approved, a 5% penalty (of the total possible mark) will be applied each day a written assessment is not submitted, up until the 7th day (including weekends). After the 7th day, a grade of ‘0’ will be awarded even if the assessment is submitted. Submission time for all written assessments is set at 11.55pm. A 1-hour grace period is provided to students who experience a technical concern. For any late submissions of time-sensitive tasks, such as scheduled tests/exams, performance assessments/presentations, and/or scheduled practical assessments/labs, students need to submit an application for Special Consideration.

Unit Schedule

Refer to the information on the relevant iLearn page.
