Unit description

This unit explores recent developments in educational psychology and child development and examines links to teaching and learning primarily in school contexts. It begins with an overview and analysis of the broad fields of educational psychology and developmental psychology and recent topical debates are introduced. Topical focus areas include the development of motivation and engagement in students, student interactions with peers and teachers and the pedagogical debates surrounding the application of knowledge emerging from research. Students will conduct an independent study of a problem of practical or theoretical significance by deeply engaging with relevant research and theory from a psychological and developmental viewpoint. Students are encouraged to develop a research-based understanding that may be further developed in future research or study or in their practical workplace context.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

After the 7th day, a mark of, 0 (zero) will be awarded even if the assessment is submitted. Submission time for all written assessments is set at 11:55pm. A 1-hour grace period is provided to students who experience a technical issue. This late penalty will apply to non-timed sensitive assessment (incl essays, reports, posters, portfolios, journals, recordings etc).

- Please format assessments using 12-point font and 1.5 spacing.
- All assessments are submitted electronically. Turnitin plagiarism detection software is used to check all written assessments.
- Students can use Turnitin's Originality Report as a learning tool to improve their academic writing if this option is made available in the unit.
- Students should carefully check that they submit the correct file for an assessment as no re-submissions will be accepted after the due date and time, including instances where students upload an incorrect file in error.
- Word limits are strictly applied. Work above the word limit will not be marked.

- All assessments are marked using a clear marking scheme or a rubric.
- Marking of all assessments is moderated by the Unit Convenor.
- Applications for extensions must be made via AskMQ (<https://ask.mq.edu.au/>).
- It is not the responsibility of unit staff to contact students who have failed to submit assessments. If you have any missing items of assessment, it is your responsibility to make contact with the unit convenor.

A Note on AI Use in this Unit

AI cannot be used for quizzes. Your assignments cannot report content generated by a third party or AI sources. While AI tools (e.g. Multisearch, Google Scholar, ChatGPT and other generative AI tools), can be useful sources of information and ideas, it is fraudulent and a breach of academic integrity to pass off the content generated by these tools as your own writing and ideas. Please note that information or references generated by a third party or AI (e.g. Multisearch, Google Scholar, Chat GPT, etc.) needs to be checked for accuracy and reliability. AI and third party information generators are notorious for providing wrong, false, and incomplete information

Units with Quiz Assessments

Quizzes are an individual assessment task and MUST BE COMPLETED by each student individually. Similarities in responses between students will be checked and investigated for possible collusion.

Delivery and Resources

Structure

This unit has ten (10) teaching weeks. Each week there are TWO (2) recorded online lectures and ONE (1) tutorial. Tutorials are offered in three modes: a weekly face-to-face class on campus, or a weekly online class hosted on Zoom or you may choose to attend the Infrequent mode with TWO (2) On-Campus sessions. You must register in one of these tutorial modes and attend your registered tutorial or on-campus days.

In the tutorial students will discuss issues and questions arising from the lectures and prescribed readings and will complete activities designed to reinforce key concepts. You are expected to base your tutorial contributions, any arguments or discussions on evidence from these readings, published research and other relevant material, particularly that supplied in the Unit. In both face to face and online modes all students are required to participate in small group activities, whole class discussion, to read the weekly material in advance, and to complete brief tasks either as individuals or in pairs.

There is an expectation that cameras and microphones are turned on in Zoom during all online activities. Please ensure you have internet access to attend your Zoom class in an appropriate location where you can speak aloud and participate in group discussions. e.g., public areas of the Library, are typically not an appropriate place to attend your Zoom class due to quiet space rules in the library. The weekly program for the course with the accompanying readings/ preparation is available on the unit iLearn site.

Required and Recommended Readings

Required readings are located in the Leganto tool in iLearn or in the library.

Changes from Previous Offering

The unit is updated and some elements may change each offering including lectures, readings and other content. Assessment tasks are changed each offering with new topics and foci.

The 5Rs Framework

The 5Rs Framework, developed by the Macquarie School of Education, is embedded throughout your teacher education course.

Your use of the 5Rs Framework will help you develop the capabilities that will make your teaching career sustainable and fulfilling.

In this unit, you will learn using the 5Rs framework in the following important ways:

Resilience: This unit explicitly teaches concepts of resilience and students will interact with these concepts; assessment and feedback is a formative process that requires the competencies of self-regulation, self-efficacy and support seeking, which are critical components of our capacity to be resilient.

Reflexive: This unit teaches key concepts of educational psychology and child development and learning in a reflexive stance that requires students to interact with and engage with their own beliefs and understandings of these concepts.

Responsive: Activities and tasks require students to practice the application of concepts to teaching and learning activities and demonstrate practical and reflexive engagement with concepts.

Ready to learn: This unit is supported and scaffolded with a structured iLearn site however students must demonstrate readiness to learn by scheduling their own listening time for online lectures/podcasts, completion of weekly readings and activities, and preparedness for tutorials and assessment tasks. Assessment tasks support readiness skills by promoting revision of weekly learning materials and readiness to engage in research so support evidence-based practice.

Research Engaged: Unit readings and assessments tasks draw on published and/or peer reviewed research and students are offered a choice of assessment topics with which to demonstrate research engagement.
