Unit description

This unit examines the role of remuneration and performance management systems in contemporary organisations. Utilising theory and practical examples, the unit will enable students to identify the essential elements required to design a comprehensive remuneration and performance management system that delivers strategic value to a range of stakeholders, including the organisation and workers. Problem solving skills will be emphasised.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

ULO1: Identify and apply the different approaches to managing performance and reward systems in contemporary organisations.

ULO2: Explore and critically evaluate the theoretical underpinnings of performance and reward strategies, applying this theoretical knowledge to solve problems and develop outcomes relating to performance and reward systems within a number of organisational contexts.

ULO3: Critically analyse and compare contemporary performance and rewards strategies individually or within a group to identify their strengths, weaknesses and impact on stakeholders and organisational performance.

ULO4: Evaluate and communicate the strategic value that performance and reward strategy contribute to the holistic development of contemporary Human Resource Management (HRM) systems in support of delivering organisational goals.

General Assessment Information

Late Assessment Submission Penalty

Unless a Special Consideration request has been submitted and approved, a 5% penalty (of the total possible mark) will be applied each day a written assessment is not submitted, up until the 7th day (including weekends). After the 7th day, a grade of '0' will be awarded even if the assessment is submitted. Submission time for all written assessments is set at 11.55pm. A 1-hour grace period is provided to students who experience a technical concern. For any late submissions of time-sensitive tasks, such as scheduled tests/exams, performance assessments/presentations, and/or scheduled practical assessments/labs, students need to apply for Special Consideration.

Assessment Tasks

Name	Weighting	Hurdle	Due
Group Presentation and Report	40%	No	Week 3 onwards
Case Study	40%	No	Week 13
Active Participation	20%	No	Week 2 onwards

Group Presentation and Report

Assessment Type ¹: Project

Indicative Time on Task ²: 20 hours

Due: Week 3 onwards

Weighting: 40%

This assessment requires students to apply course concepts, theory, and empirical evidence to demonstrate their knowledge in the form of a group presentation and report.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Explore and critically evaluate the theoretical underpinnings of performance and reward strategies, applying this theoretical knowledge to solve problems and develop outcomes relating to performance and reward systems within a number of organisational contexts.
- Critically analyse and compare contemporary performance and rewards strategies individually or within a group to identify their strengths, weaknesses and impact on stakeholders and organisational performance.

- Evaluate and communicate the strategic value that performance and reward strategy contribute to the holistic development of contemporary Human Resource Management (HRM) systems in support of delivering organisational goals.

Case Study

Assessment Type ¹: Report

Indicative Time on Task ²: 20 hours

Due: Week 13

Weighting: 40%

This assessment requires students to provide an analysis of the problem in the case provided, and to explain, discuss, and argue for an appropriate strategy based on the (critical appraisal of the) available evidence within the context of the unit's content.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Identify and apply the different approaches to managing performance and reward systems in contemporary organisations.
- Explore and critically evaluate the theoretical underpinnings of performance and reward strategies, applying this theoretical knowledge to solve problems and develop outcomes relating to performance and reward systems within a number of organisational contexts.
- Critically analyse and compare contemporary performance and rewards strategies individually or within a group to identify their strengths, weaknesses and impact on stakeholders and organisational performance.
- Evaluate and communicate the strategic value that performance and reward strategy contribute to the holistic development of contemporary Human Resource Management (HRM) systems in support of delivering organisational goals.

Active Participation

Assessment Type ¹: Practice-based task

Indicative Time on Task ²: 15 hours

Due: Week 2 onwards

Weighting: 20%

The purpose of this assessment is to create an interactive and engaging learning environment that empowers students to take an active role in their education.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Identify and apply the different approaches to managing performance and reward systems in contemporary organisations.
 - Explore and critically evaluate the theoretical underpinnings of performance and reward strategies, applying this theoretical knowledge to solve problems and develop outcomes relating to performance and reward systems within a number of organisational contexts.
 - Critically analyse and compare contemporary performance and rewards strategies individually or within a group to identify their strengths, weaknesses and impact on stakeholders and organisational performance.
