Unit description

Property is a fundamental legal concept in contemporary western societies. In this unit the property concept is examined from theoretical and practical perspectives. Initially, the question of what the concept should encompass is raised, looking particularly at the person/property distinction and at the boundaries of property such as ownership of the human body and its parts and digital property. Moral implications and economic justifications for the allocation of property rights are then introduced. The major portion of the unit is concerned with a thorough examination of the practical application of property law in Australia beginning with the law of personal property and continuing with systems of title to land (old system, Torrens and native title), the primary interests in land such as mortgages, easements, leases and covenants and concurrent ownership. Analytical and problem solving skills are developed through hypothetical problem exercises and careful consideration of authoritative case law.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

ULO1: Explain and critically analyse the historical development of Australian property law, as well as its international, cultural, political and colonial context.

ULO2: Understand and critically analyse the law relating to Native Title.

ULO3: Understand and critically analyse the creation and enforceability of legal and equitable interests in property and the priority rules that apply between them.

ULO4: Understand and critically analyse the Torrens system, including strata title.

ULO5: Understand and critically analyse a range of interests in real and personal property.

General Assessment Information

Late Assessment Submission Penalty

- Unless a Special Consideration request has been submitted and approved, a 5% penalty (of the total possible mark) will be applied each day a written assessment is not submitted, up until the 7th day (including weekends).
- After the 7th day, a mark of, 0 (zero) will be awarded even if the assessment is submitted.
- Submission time for all written assessments is set at 11.55 pm. A 1-hour grace period is provided to students who experience a technical issue.
- This late penalty will apply to non-time-sensitive assessment (incl essays, reports, posters, portfolios, journals, recordings etc).
- Late submission of time-sensitive tasks (such as tests/exams, performance assessments/presentations, scheduled practical assessments/labs etc) will only be addressed by the unit convenor in a Special Consideration application.

Delivery and Resources

Please note, all readings and course content is contained in the online textbook on iLearn. There is no hardcopy or e-copy text that students need to purchase. Students must complete their reading each week.

1 hour campus tutorials will be held each week, or 2 hour online tutorials fortnightly, for students to discuss the law, ask questions and practise the application of law. Participation will be assessed.

A 2 hour lecture will be given each week, for students to ideally attend in person, or listen to online. However, the lectures are not the primary delivery of course content. Course content is contained in the readings.

Unit Schedule

Topics covered:

1. History of Anglo-Australian land law
2. Native Title
3. Torrens system
4. Co-ownership
5. Leases
6. Mortgages
7. Easements
8. Freehold covenants
9. Personal Property

A week by week schedule is available on iLearn.

When using the University's IT, you must adhere to the Acceptable Use of IT Resources Policy. The policy applies to all who connect to the MQ network including students.

Changes from Previous Offering

The Legal Practitioners Admission Board, which decides which degrees qualify graduates for legal practice in NSW, now requires 50% of the assessment for 'Priestley 11' units to be formal, invigilated assessment. The Priestley 11 are the subjects that students must pass to practise law (Professor Priestley chaired the committee that determined this in the early 1990s). As a result, the final assessment for Property is an online Zoom invigilated exam. Students will be able to refer to one double-sided sheet of paper, with typed or handwritten notes, but no other materials. Details of MQ exams are on the University website and further details of the content and form of the exam are on iLearn.
