Unit description Globalisation has had dramatic implications for the structure and conduct of global politics, now defined by the multiplication of actors and networks. Contemporary crises can no longer be contained within state borders and global problems such as climate change, poverty, health insecurities, and violent conflicts call for global solutions. This unit equips students with the tools to understand the forces that shape the world we live in by introducing them to the key issues, institutions, ideas, and actors involved in global politics. It first outlines the historical context, key theories and concepts, and fundamental institutions of contemporary global politics. Students will then explore important global issues including the changing nature of war, Artificial Intelligence (AI) and autonomous weapons, climate change, poverty, and refugee 'crises'. Overall, the unit provides students with foundational knowledge about the complexity of global politics, problems and solutions. All enrolment queries should be directed to Open Universities Australia (OUA): see www.open.edu.au

Submission time for all written assessments is set at 11.55pm. A 1-hour grace period is provided to students who experience a technical issue.
