Unit description

Social policies represent the 'what, how, who and why'. But where do policies come from? Who constructs them and how? Does policy have relevance with the everyday workings of crime control? This unit offers a scholarly perspective that analyses the effectiveness of contemporary criminal justice policy. Students will critically evaluate crime reduction and prevention strategies employed in Australia and internationally as well as formulate practical and effective solutions to contemporary crime problems. Students will be able to critically understand the structure and functioning of the criminal justice system, evaluate criminal justice policies and design, develop crime prevention and reduction strategies as well as evaluate the efficacy and possibilities of alternative approaches to both crime prevention and incarceration. The unit examines the historical development of crime policy, key concepts such as the 'policy cycle', the barriers in changing criminal justice policies, why some policies are successful and others are not, as well as the role of politics in the design and implementation of criminal justice policy. Doing so, students will be able to develop a criminological understanding of the operation of various facets of the criminal justice system, particularly police, courts and corrective services and their limitations.

students are expected to make significant contributions to on-line activities.

- In most cases students are required to attempt and submit all major assessment tasks in order to pass the unit.

7th day (including weekends). After the 7th day, a mark of, 0 (zero) will be awarded even if the assessment is submitted. Submission time for all written assessments is set at 11.55pm. A 1-hour grace period is provided to students who experience a technical issue.

WORD LIMITS FOR ASSESSMENT TASKS

- Stated word limits include footnotes and footnoted references, but not bibliography, or title page.
- Word limits can generally deviate by 10% either over or under the stated figure.
- If the number of words deviates from the limit by more than 10%, then penalties will apply. These penalties are 5% of the awarded mark for every 100 words deviation from the word limit. If a paper is 300 words over, for instance, it will lose $3 \times 5\% = 15\%$ of the total mark awarded for the assignment. This percentage is taken off the total mark, i.e. if a paper was graded at a credit (65%) and was 300 words over, it would be reduced by 15 marks to a pass (50%).
- The application of this penalty is at the discretion of the course convener.
