Unit description

Climate change is underway, and it is common to feel overwhelmed by the seemingly insurmountable challenges ahead. Amidst the pessimism, there are hopeful and sustainable possibilities for both people and planet. This unit equips students with a foundational understanding of interdisciplinary climate change studies via an introduction to the socio-ecological responses aimed at climate action and repair. Students will encounter transformative ideas and practices that reconsider the relationships between humans and more-than-human worlds, including Indigenous and decolonial perspectives. By examining how hope can be mobilised to address looming environmental challenges, students will develop a crucial understanding of how individuals, communities and organisations collectively contribute to positive changes in a time of climate crisis.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

ULO1: Explore and describe the socio-ecological dimensions of climate change.

ULO2: Identify and analyse diverse, innovative and hopeful approaches to climate change.

ULO3: Describe examples of Indigenous and decolonial perspectives on climate change and repair.

ULO4: Propose and communicate persuasive stories about actions to address climate change.

General Assessment Information

Where can you find more information about the assessment?

Please consult the folder in the SSCI1030 iLearn page labelled 'Assessment'. Here you will find more detailed instructions for each assessment item, marking criteria and rubrics. The assessment folder contains links to useful resources and guides. You are encouraged to post questions about assignments in the General Discussion Forum on the main iLearn page.

Submitting your assignments

Unless otherwise specified, you are required to submit your assignments by the time and date provided in this Unit Guide via the Turnitin link provided in iLearn. Please keep an electronic copy of your assignment and a record of your submission for reference.

Late assessment penalty

Unless a Special Consideration request has been submitted and approved, a 5% penalty (of the total possible mark) will be applied each day a written assessment is not submitted, up until the 7th day (including weekends). After the 7th day, a mark of '0' (zero) will be awarded even if the assessment is submitted. Submission time for all written assessments is set at 11.55pm. A 1-hour grace period is provided to students who experience a technical issue.

This late penalty will apply to non-timed sensitive assessment (incl essays, reports, posters, portfolios, journals, recordings etc). Late submission of time sensitive tasks (such as tests/exams, performance assessments/presentations, scheduled practical assessments/labs etc) will only be addressed by the unit convenor in a Special consideration application. Special Consideration outcome may result in a new question or topic.

Assessment marks and feedback

Individual marks and feedback to students will be provided via Turnitin. Feedback will include the rubric, intext comments and general feedback. You are encouraged to utilise these resources to develop your skills in subsequent assessments.

Delivery and Resources

SSCI1030 is available as in person/ on-campus (internal) or online-flexible (external) offerings depending on the stream you have enrolled in.

For on-campus students the unit is delivered as a 3 hour lecture/workshop. The classes comprise a mix of lecture, structured activities, small group work, student and guest presentations and discussion of the weekly readings. Some class time will be set aside for assignment preparation, individually and in groups. We encourage on-campus students to regularly attend class as workshop activities are linked to the assessment.

Online flexible (external) students will have access to the recorded lecture material in Echo360 and resources and activities are available each week on iLearn under the label "Online-flexible option". These activities are self directed and it is up to individual students to manage their time to undertake the work. We encourage online-flexible students to regularly engage with the weekly activities as they are linked to the assessment.

Unit readings can be accessed via Leganto. The Leganto link is located in the top right panel of the SSCI1030 iLearn main page. Please contact the Unit Convenors if you are having trouble accessing the readings as they are essential to your assignments and to the class discussions.

The SSCI1030 iLearn page contains additional resources which will be added to the site throughout the semester. Please make sure that you regularly check the iLearn page and your Macquarie University student email for updates and information regarding this unit.

Unit Schedule

Each weekly topic is structured around a question which will be explored in the lecture and workshop activities.

Week 1. Introduction - why is climate change a social issue?

Week 2. Storying climates 1 - why do stories matter to climate change?
