Unit description

This unit introduces students to the major theories of international relations, key debates that have shaped the discipline and interconnections between theory and the practice of international politics. The first chair of international politics was established after the First World War with the explicit goal of identifying the causes of war and peace. While war and great power conflict remain central concerns, the discipline has grappled with new challenges as de-colonisation and globalisation have created a densely interconnected global system of sovereign states. Students will engage with key themes including power, great power rivalry, nationalism, national interest, critical approaches, justice and cooperation under anarchy.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

ULO1: Collect information from self-selected sources to complete a prescribed research task.

ULO2: Demonstrate a critical understanding of the specific theories used in the study of international relations.

ULO3: Identify and analyse interconnections between international relations theory and contemporary international politics.

ULO4: Demonstrate capacity to apply the major analytic and theoretical frameworks in several subfields of international relations.

ULO5: Discuss theories of world politics in depth with peers.

General Assessment Information

Special Consideration & Late Submission Penalty

*Unless a Special Consideration request has been submitted and approved, a 5% penalty (of the total possible mark) will be applied each day a written assessment is not submitted, up until the 7th day (including weekends). After the 7th day, a mark of '0' (zero) will be awarded even if the assessment is submitted. Submission time for all written assessments is set at 11.55pm. A 1-hour grace period is provided to students who experience a technical issue. This late penalty will apply to non-timed sensitive assessment (incl essays, reports, posters, portfolios, journals, recordings etc). Late submission of time sensitive tasks (such as tests/exams, performance assessments/presentations, scheduled practical assessments/labs etc) will only be addressed by the unit convenor in a Special consideration application. Special Consideration outcome may result in a new question or topic.

Delivery and Resources

Delivery

Lectures: the lecture is scheduled for Monday 11-1pm in 23WW T2 Lecture Theatre (classrooms may change after publication of this unit guide, so please check the timetable). The lecture will be recorded and available for viewing later via ilearn/echo360.

Internal students are expected to attend tutorials each week commencing in Week 1. However, if you are unwell please do not attend class.

Required resources:

In addition to reading that can be accessed through Leganto there is one required text for this unit:

Lawson, Stephanie. (2015). Theories of International Relations: Contending Approaches to World Politics. Polity Press: Cambridge.

The library will have a copy of this text (including online access). However, we recommend that you either purchase a copy ahead of semester, or else make sure you complete readings a day or two ahead of class as there may be times when the textbook is not immediately accessible. All other required unit readings will all be available on leganto.

Unit Schedule

Week 1 - Monday 24 Feb - Introduction Lecturer: Jon Symons

Introduction: Can theory help us to understand world politics? Whose interests does theory serve? In what context and for what purpose was the discipline of International Relations established? What are the political implications of these origins for the work practitioners of international politics do today? How do theories of IR relate to contemporary issues such as climate change, power transition, disruption by artificial intelligence and rise of far-right ideologies? Lecturer: Jon Symons.

Tutorials commence Week 1.
